CHINA EXPECTED TO REFER DISPUTE TO LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Waiting to Observe Development of Situation in North China and Reaction of Signatories of Nine-Power Treaty—Tentative Compromise Agreement Unofficially Reported

LONDON, Dec. 6 (AP).—The Chinese Government, it was said in responsible quarters tonight, may take its dispute with Japan to the League of Nations, charging Tokio with aggression in the Northern Provinces of China.

The British Government, an informed source indicated, also may take steps to safeguard the territorial integrity of China, guaranteed under the Nine-Power Treaty. This source said Britain was considering representations to Tokio, drawing attention to Japan's obligations under the Nine-Power Pact.

DEPENDS ON SITUATION

The date of China's formal appeal to the League of Nations, it was reported reliably, depends on how the situation develops and how the signatories of the Nine-Power Treaty react to the North China situation.

The Chinese Ambassador to London, Quo Tai-Chi, called the crisis to the notice of the British Government early this week, pointing out Britain's obligations under the Nine-Power Pact.

JOINT STEPS POSSIBLE

Some quarters said there was a possibility of joint or simultaneous steps by signatories of the Nine-Power Treaty, whose diplomatic representatives were said to be keeping closely informed of the North China situation.

"Filling Up" During Flood

Recent excessive rainfall through the Mother Country resulted in roads in nine counties being almost completely flooded. This scene in the High Street of Yalding, Kent, shows a motorcyclist who had the bad luck to run short of gas in the middle of the flooded street.

Invoke Help For Ethiopians With Weird Sacrifices

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Dec. 6 (AP).—By the weird sacrificial ritual of the Yoruba, 200 negroes in a village near here invoke help each day for Ethiopia in its fight against Italy. Milling about a great outdoor altar, the band chants voodoo hymns fervently while tomtoms beat wildly and a black witch doctor intones prayers, and animals are put to the sacrifice.

IMPERIAL ETHIOPIAN HEADQUARTERS, DESSYE, Ethiopia, Dec. 6.—A silvery fleet of Italian battle planes rained death and horror on this war headquarters of Emperor Haile Selassie today. They strewed the streets with at least a dozen dead and nearly 200 wounded and bombed the American hospital, Red Cross tents and the Imperial palace.

Seizing a machine gun, the courageous Emperor inspired his frantic subjects as women and children fell screaming in the streets. He fired a stream of lead into the sky, and later was located, unharmed, in the old Italian consulate.

DROP 1,000 BOMBS

Nine powerful trim-motors, their engines thundering and their machine guns spouting bullets, dropped more than 1,000 bombs during the seventeen-minute assault.

(A few hours later, the Ethiopian Emperor dispatched a vehement protest to the League of Nations. In his note, published at Geneva, the Negus asserted: "We ourselves have established the deaths of a woman and two children. The American hospital at Dessye, which carried with authorization the markings of the Red Cross, has been seriously damaged."

WOMEN AND CHILDREN

I saw many women and children among the dead and wounded. One ward of the American Seventh-Day Adventist Hospital was wrecked. Pounded by 100 bombs, the Emperor's palace was damaged. Miss Petra Hovig, a Norwegian nurse, suffered a broken leg. The Belgian major, G. A. Tiefraipont, was wounded. Georges Goyon, the corre-

DEATH CALLS PUBLIC MAN

Ex-Mayor William Marchant Closes Career of Active Community Service

A "grand old man" in the public life of Victoria, ex-Mayor William Marchant, passed away yesterday in the Royal Jubilee Hospital at the age of eighty-one years. His death brought to a close an active career in the public and business life of this community. News of his passing was received with profound regret by a host of intimate friends and associates.

Mr. Marchant is survived by one son, W. P. Marchant, and one daughter, Mrs. D. L. MacLaurin, both of Victoria. A second son, Dr. Harold Marchant, was killed at Britannia twenty-five years ago. There are six grandchildren. His wife predeceased him two years ago.

FUNERAL MONDAY

The funeral will be held on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Emmanuel Baptist Church, of which Mr. Marchant was one of the founders. Rev. A. S. Imrie, D.D., will officiate. Interment will be made in the family plot in Ross Bay Cemetery. The remains are resting in McCall Bros. Funeral Home.

There was no civic election during the past two decades with which the name of Mr. Marchant was not associated in some way. If he was not a candidate himself, he was the proposer or seconder of some candidate. The history of his public service covers a period of nearly half a century, and up to a very few days ago he was still active in public affairs. At the time of his death he held public office as a director of the Victoria Library Board, and only a week ago was seen at the City Hall renewing old acquaintances.

Mr. Marchant was born in Exmouth, Devonshire, England. He went to Bristol as a young man and there engaged in the wholesale business. However, in 1889 he looked farther afield for advancement and came to Canada. He crossed the continent and came direct to Victoria, where he formed a partnership with a business associate and set up the importing firm of Mar-

BANK'S MONEY IS RECOVERED

Four Persons Detained in Connection With Hull Murder and Robbery

HULL, Dec. 6 (CP).—Solution of the theft of $15,000 from La Banque Provinciale du Canada and the murder of Armand Nadeau here on Wednesday moved closer tonight as Provincial Police whisked a fourth man to Montreal for questioning and definitely revealed the money had been found.

The stolen money, all in bills of other banks, was found in a house in Hull, but police refused to indicate the address.

ALL TAKEN TO MONTREAL

Joseph Rochon was taken to Montreal by Proivncial Police, tonight, after questioning in a Hull hotel room. He makes the fourth man taken to Montreal as J. O. Beausoleil, clerk in the robbed bank, and George Chenier, a former bank employee, were taken there early in the day. Paul Lafleur, another bank employee who accompanied the nineteen-year-old Nadeau on his fatal ride, was taken to Montreal yesterday.

OFFER NO THEORIES

Apart from revealing their detention of the four men, two of whom were employees of the bank, police declined to indicate a theory of the crime. They said several charges of murder, robbery and conspiracy would likely be laid following the inquest into Nadeau's death.

In Montreal, Chief Jargaille said the case "will reveal a state of things which will certainly surprise the Canadian people." He added, "I don't refer to the Province of Quebec only."

PLANE COMPLETES LONG ROUND TRIP

Big Machine Lands in Alameda From Hawaii Seven Hours Ahead of Schedule

ALAMEDA, Cal., Dec. 6 (AP).—The China Clipper completed her first round-trip flight to the Philippines this morning, dropping in through a cloud bank seven hours ahead of schedule at 10:36 a.m.

Swept along by brisk tail winds, the silver-streamed sky liner reached a speed as high as 175 miles an hour in the 2,400-mile overnight flight from Hawaii.

The average speed for the 16,000-mile trip to Manila and return was two miles a minute. Total flying time was 123 hours fifteen minutes. The plane left here on November 22.

GOVERNOR AIDS CONVICTED MAN

Will Delay Execution of Hauptmann if Evidence Produced Favorable

TRENTON, N.J., Dec. 6 (AP).—A source close to Governor Harold G. Hoffman disclosed the Governor is determined to "see that justice is done" in the Lindbergh kidnap-slaying.

He will delay Bruno Richard Hauptmann's execution if any "plausible" evidence is produced in the condemned man's favor, the source said.

The Governor said Ellis H. Parker, noted Burlington county detective, is working on the case and that Parker is "under the definite impression that Hauptmann is not the man."

HAS FINE RECORD

Parker, who is sixty-two and has had a high percentage of successes in homicide cases, could not be reached today.

Governor Hoffman visited Hauptmann in the death house of state prison the night of October 17. He declined to discuss the details of the call and Hauptmann was silent today about the visit, his attorney, C. Lloyd Fisher, said.

REVIEW IS PENDING

Hauptmann's petition to the Supreme Court of the United States for a review of his Flemington trial is still pending.

The court may reach a decision tomorrow and possibly decide on Monday whether to review the case. Should the decision be unfavorable to Hauptmann he still stands a good chance, in view of Hoffman's attitude and unforeseen developments, to escape the chair for some time.

Four-Year-Old Boy Kept Warm Two Nights in the Woods by Faithful Four-Footed Friend—Police Dog Finally Leads Searchers To Lost Bobbie Dean

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Dec. 6 (CP).—Bobbie Dean, four-year-old nephew of the night superintendent at the Essondale Mental Hospital, missing since Wednesday afternoon, was found by searchers today in a heavily-wooded section two miles from Essondale.

Bobbie was unharmed and apparently suffering no ill effects from his forty-eight hours in the open. With him were his two canine chums, a sixty-pound husky and a brindle bull pup.

RUSHED TO HOSPITAL

The boy was rushed to Essondale Hospital, where he was given a hot bath, hot drinks and bundled in warm blankets after his two-day exposure in the damp, fog-bound woods.

"Goody, I'm lost," Bobbie piped when the search party broke through the brush to the log where he was sitting, guarded by the husky. "Gosh, there's a lot of

BRITISH MINERS MAY WALK OUT

Nation-Wide Strike Feared As Wage Dispute Remains Deadlocked

LONDON, Dec. 6 (CP).—The Miners' Federation of Great Britain decided tonight to call a national conference to be held on December 18 to consider future action in connection with its demand for increased wages for mine workers.

Authoritative quarters termed the situation critical and said the danger of a nation-wide strike, possibly by Christmas, was increased.

The decision of the federation followed a fortnight of inconclusive negotiations conducted with Capt. H. F. C. Crookshank, Secretary for Mines.

HOLD DIRECT MEETING

Today, for the first time since the crisis developed, representatives of the owners held a direct meeting with representatives of the federation.

The latter subsequently informed Captain Crookshank that the suggestions so far advanced on behalf of the owners could not be regarded as a satisfactory basis for settlement of the dispute. Then the federation decided it had no alternative but to summon a national conference.

Wisconsin reported the death. Most of the injured were victims of falls and skidding automobiles.

SAANICH DAY AT BIG FAIR

Reeve William Crouch Dedicates Tourist Trade Indoor Exhibition

"I congratulate the Tourist Trade Development Association upon the success of this brilliant exhibition and feel sure that fortune will smile upon its future efforts," declared Reeve William Crouch at the Armories last evening, when he formally dedicated Saanich Day at the Winter Fair and Bazaar.

Reeve Crouch said he considered it an honor to represent Saanich at the fair because the municipality realized the importance of the tourist industry, and did its best to keep roads, beaches and parks in the best possible condition. He tendered praise to T. H. Eslick for his untiring efforts in making the fair one of the best indoor events held in Victoria.

Mr. Eslick thanked Reeve Crouch on behalf of the Tourist Trade Development Association.

Prior to the entrance of Reeve Crouch, the 5th Regiment (B.C.) Coast Brigade trumpet band, led by Lance-Sergeant J. E. Wilson, played two marches. The Reeve was greeted by a bugle salute.

(Copyright, 1935, by Havas News Agency)

PARIS, Dec. 6 (CP-Havas).—Premier Laval today won a smashing victory in the Chamber of Deputies in one of the most dramatic sessions in French republican history.

The so-called Fascist Leagues along with Leftist Leagues, announced they would disarm, saving France from the threat of civil war.

Premier Laval won his third triumph since the Chamber reconvened, receiving a confidence vote of 351 to 219.

Ontario Proclaims Statute Canceling Contracts for Power

Drastic Action Taken Following Fruitless Conference With Four Quebec Companies in Effort to Reach New Agreement

TORONTO, Dec. 6 (CP).—The Ontario Government tonight proclaimed its power act, canceling power purchase contracts with four Quebec companies, after a conference when representatives of the companies failed to reach an agreement. Further negotiations, it was announced, would be delayed until after the Dominion-Provincial Conference this month.

An order-in-council was passed following the futile negotiations in Premier Mitchell Hepburn's office, proclaiming the act which was passed at the last session of the Legislature. The Cabinet conferred for some time and decided the offer of the companies for revision of contracts was "altogether unsatisfactory."

Further negotiations for purchase of power it actually requires, pending definite settlement of the question, will be carried on by the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission.

HOLDS CONTRACTS ILLEGAL

The Hepburn Government, which came into power in the Summer of 1934, held power contracts with the Beauharnois, McLaren, Ottawa Valley and Gatineau companies to be illegal. The contracts were ar-

Government Only Anxious to Deny Taking Initiative

Premier Mackenzie King Reiterates Explanation Of Dominion Government's Statement Regarding Canadian Representative's Suggestion at Geneva of Oil Embargo

OTTAWA, Dec. 6 (CP).—The Dominion Government's statement of last Sunday, denying responsibility for Dr. Walter A. Riddell's oil sanctions proposal at Geneva, had reference only to the origin of the suggestion, Premier Mackenzie King declared tonight.

"It had no reference to the merits of the proposal which will be considered when the proper time arrives," the Prime Minister said.

Mr. King was interviewed tonight at the close of the first Cabinet council he has held since his return from his southern holiday.

ERRONEOUS IMPRESSION

An impression had gone abroad that the Canadian Government had taken the initiative in advocating an extension of the sanctions against Italy to include oil, coal and iron. That impression was erroneous, the Prime Minister said, and the Government had thought it advisable to correct it.

Dr. Walter A. Riddell, Canadian permanent adviser at the League of Nations in Geneva, member of the committee of eighteen on sanctions, suggested to that committee on November 2, that oil, coal and iron be

RIOTING BREAKS OUT IN CAIRO

Six Policemen Injured in Clash With Mob in Front Of British Residency

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 6 (CP-Havas).—Anti-British rioting broke out in Cairo tonight. Six policemen were injured.

More than 1,000 Egyptian Nationalists massed in front of the Residency, headquarters of Sir Miles Lampson, British high commissioner, shouting "Down with the British!" Police who ploughed into the throng to disperse it were met with a barrage of stones and other projectiles.

Several policemen were injured before the crowd was dispersed. More were injured in clashes in other sections of the city.

SAYS TIME NOT RIPE

(Sir Samuel Hoare, British Foreign Secretary, said yesterday in the House of Commons that Britain would take up the Egyptian question as soon as the pressing problem of the Italo-Ethiopian campaign was settled. He indicated the time was not ripe for a return to the Constitution of 1923 or that of 1930. Nationalists have demanded restoration of one Constitution or the other, in place of the present virtual dictatorship of Premier Twefik Nessim Pasha).

Premier Nessim Pasha called an emergency session of the Cabinet to discuss the situation.

ABANDON HOPE FOR AVIATORS

Australian Government Considering Some Form of Recognition for Widow

CANBERRA, Australia, Dec. 7 (CP Cable Via Reuters).—The Australian Government today officially gave up hope that Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith and Tom Pethybridge, missing flyers, ever would be found.

The distinguished Australian airman and his co-pilot have been missing since November 8, when they vanished over the Bay of Bengal while seeking to establish a new record for the England-Australia flight.

RECORDS APPRECIATION

The Commonwealth Parliament recorded its high appreciation of Sir Charles' unique services in the field of civil aviation, not only by his many brilliant flights, but by his activities in connection with regular transport services.

The Cabinet is considering some form of recognition for Lady Kingsford-Smith and her young son.

F. P. O'CONNOR MADE SENATOR

Toronto Candy Magnate Appointed to Upper Chamber

OTTAWA, Dec. 6 (CP).—Frank Patrick O'Connor, Toronto candy magnate and philanthropist, was appointed to the Senate today, filling the vacancy created by the recent death of Hon. Charles Murphy, of Ottawa.

The announcement was made early tonight by Premier King after a Cabinet council. Senator O'Connor will represent Irish Roman Catholics from Ontario. He was the first appointee to the Senate made by the new Government.

CONFIRMED BY GOVERNOR

Mr. O'Connor was in Ottawa today, but left this evening for Toronto. The appointment was approved at Cabinet council this afternoon and confirmed by the Governor-General. It fills the only vacancy in the Senate.

Naming of Senator O'Connor will bring the Government standing in the Upper House back to a total of thirty-two, as the late Senator Murphy also was a Liberal. Conservatives have sixty-four members in the red chamber, a majority of thirty-two.

ACTIVE PARTY SUPPORTER

Senator O'Connor has been an active supporter of the Liberal Party for years and a backer and close friend of Premier M. F. Hepburn, of Ontario.

President of Laura Secord Candy Shops in Canada and Fanny Farmer Candy Shops, Inc., in the United States, the new appointee started his business career in Peterboro, Ont., and for the past fifteen years had been engaged in the candy business.

ONE KILLED IN HAMILTON FIRE

HAMILTON, Ont., Dec. 6 (CP).—The $250,000 fire that broke out in the six-storey Royal Markets Apartments last midnight took one life, it was discovered today when firemen found the remains of John Brooks in the ruins.

Brooks, about forty-five years old, was a radio salesman and is believed to have come from Detroit.

Many of the seventy-five tenants escaped by safety ladders and fire escapes, and several aged people were lowered from windows by ropes.

Clergyman Complains Of Constable Making Inquiry Into His Past

Rev. S. B. East, of Regina, Contends That Whole Resources of State Used in Preparing Case Against Relief Camp Strikers

REGINA, Dec. 6 (CP).—A charge that a Royal Canadian Mounted Police constable had been assigned to investigate the past of Rev. S. B. East, Regina, was made today at the Dominion Day riot inquiry by Mr. East himself.

While giving evidence under oath, Mr. East illustrated his contention that "the whole resources of the state" were used in preparing a case against the relief camp strikers. The R.C.M.P., he said, were "raking over anything in the past to discredit the trekkers." Details of his own past were under scrutiny.

NOTHING TO HIDE

"Constable E. Wakefield," he said, "has been detailed for some time to look into my past." He did not object and had nothing to hide, but was sure the history of R.C.M.P. witnesses was not being sifted in the same way.

E. C. Leslie, counsel for the Federal Government and the R.C.M.P., said he had not asked for any such investigation.

The strikers, said Rev. Mr. East, had not the resources to investigate in the same way witnesses of the police, nor to counteract police evidence against their own witnesses.

Chief Justice J. T. Brown said the commission was ready to give the strikers the help they needed.

CHARGES DISCRIMINATION

There was one law for the rich and one for the poor, said Mr. East. Witness instanced the arrest of Matt Shaw, one of the trekkers, in Ontario. Chief Justice Brown said he had just read of a Senator being arrested and sentenced.

B. D. Hogarth, K.C., counsel for the Federal Government and the R.C.M.P., asked Mr. East if he (Mr. East) had said at a public meeting that he had left Winnipeg because it had become "too hot" for him. Mr. East said this was partially correct. "Any man who defends labor in the church is at a disadvantage."

"COUNSEL FOR CHURCH"

Chief Justice Brown: "We'd better get counsel here for the church."

Mr. East said he had been "under police surveillance" once before at Napinka, Man., for arranging a meeting for J. S. Woodsworth. A number of clergymen were under police surveillance at that time, which was after the Winnipeg strike in 1919. "Any who showed sympathy with the strikers were watched."

"Did you have any other connection with the Winnipeg strike?" asked Mr. Hogarth.

"I nearly had my head smashed in protecting a woman," was the reply.

IN THE RECORDS

Rev. Mr. East's description of the "test motorcade" of the night of June 17 last, when an attempt was made to launch a small party of strikers eastward by highway, and when R.C.M.P. stopped them and arrested several strikers and Mr. East, went into the inquiry's records.

Six other witnesses related details of the strikers' stay in Regina during June, one being Mayor-Elect A. C. Ellison, who will be Regina's first Labor mayor.

Humphries and Al Reynolds, played several lively selections.

Because of the large crowd all chairs in front of the stage had to be removed. They were loaned to the association by courtesy of Captain Burges J. Gadsden, founder of Sunshine Inn.

William Harkness, the Satin-Glo magician, repeated his baffling escape while handcuffed and manacled inside a steel cylinder. The lid was padlocked and held fast on the outside by a welded steel bar. Handcuffs, manacles, bar and the tank were on display for spectators to examine before the escape.

Up and down the aisles, separating the forty-eight modernistic booths, hundreds of visitors inspected the attractive displays of made-in-Victoria products. The midway, with its barkers entreating patrons to squander their stage money, was a busy spot all evening.

OVER MILE OF WIRE

R. D. Lemmax, who superintended installation of the diffused lighting at the fair, used over 6,000 feet of new wire for the 2,000 globes. A special three phase, 110 and 220-volt power line was installed to handle the twenty-five kilowatts of current necessary.

Today, the last day of the Winter Fair and Exhibition, doors will be open from 2 o'clock in the afternoon until midnight.

Mrs. David Leeming, wife of Mayor David Leeming, at 8:15 o'clock this evening will announce prize winners among school children who sold tickets to the fair. Mrs. Leeming will be assisted by Mrs. T. H. Eslick.

Mr. Hunter played an illuminated banjo.

Chicken en casserole, maccaroon cake and apple muffins were demonstrated by Mrs. M. A. Foulds, of the B.C. Electric Railway Company, Ltd., home service department, on an electric stove on the stage. Copies of the recipes, and samples of the food cooked, were distributed to spectators. Mrs. Foulds will give another demonstration from 3 to 4 o'clock this afternoon.

FOR THE HUNGRY

Hungry fairgoers had their wants satisfied by three lunch stands supplying hot dogs, hamburgers, doughnuts, cakes, sandwiches, ice cream and liquid refreshments.

Representatives of Charm of Hollywood beauty products gave a demonstration on the stage of the secrets of make-up as practised by moving picture stars.

During the evening Miss Florence Clough directed a number of well-received dances. Dressed in bright-colored silk costumes, the Misses Thelma Stratford, Lulu Bond, Davida Webb, Kathleen Mann, Kathleen Gregson and Frances Borde, gave a carioca rhumba.

Dressed in an orange velvet suit, Miss Davida Webb executed an acrobatic dance. Miss Velda Wille, attired in a striking pink satin tuxedo, gave a staircase top dance.

Miss Thelma Stratford and Alex Webster took the solo part in a Spanish tango. Other performers in the number were the Misses Isabelle McAlpine, Lulu Bond, Kathleen Gregson and Fred Hawkins and James McCague.

A chorus dance was given by the Misses Margaret Walker, Phyllis Adams, Christine Stevenson, Georgette Calder, Doreen Robson and Evelyn Finn. Miss Finn took the part of a Harlequin.

These dances will be repeated this evening to the music of Al Reynolds and his cabaret orchestra. In addition, a ballet number will be given by Miss Ethel Gillis.

SELASSIE MANS GUN AS DESSYE BOMBED

spondent for the Havas (French) News Agency, was shot in one knee and wounded severely.

TOWN A SHAMBLES

Some parts of the town resembled a shambles, with dead and wounded filling the streets. Within an incredibly short time, the wounded began pouring into the hospital and the camp of war correspondents.

IN HOSPITAL TENT

By GEORGES GOYON
Havas Special Correspondent at Dessye
(Copyright, 1935, by Havas News Agency)

DESSYE, Dec. 6 (CP-Havas).—I am dictating this story in an improvised hospital-tent tonight with my left leg propped on a camp-stool. I was hit by a fragment from an Italian bomb, one of many hundreds dropped by thirty planes when they swept down on this city this morning and loosed their cargo of destruction, sending an American field hospital up in flames.

SAW THEM DIE

Thirty-two men, women and children were killed and more than 200 persons were wounded in the raid, I am told. I myself saw some of them die. I saw men with stark fear trembling on their livid faces, in contrast to the air of swash-buckling bravado they displayed when danger seemed far off.

At the same time I saw a magnificent display of personal courage. When I first heard the drone of the Italian planes, I interrupted my breakfast to rush in search of Emperor Haile Selassie.

I found him, the personification of disdainful calm, standing in the midst of a battery of anti-aircraft guns, calmly directing the men at the sights. I counted ten big planes, diving down on Dessye so steeply and with such a speed that it seems they must crash right in our midst.

PLANES SWOOP LOW

With a few quiet words the little Emperor ordered the gunners to stand ready to fire. The planes swooped low, dropping their bombs when they were not more than a few hundred feet above the ground. Many of the explosives burst with an ear-splitting roar which was mingled with the screams of frightened women. Other bombs broke into flames as they struck tents and frame shacks.

I learned afterward that several of the incendiary bombs had hit the American Field Hospital, while others had turned Crown Prince Asfavo Wassan Tafari's Palace into an inferno of flames. The hospital was little more than a cluster of tents around a central wooden building, on whose roof was painted a big red cross.

HOSPITAL NURSE HIT

They tell me a nurse at the hospital was hit by one of the bombs, and physicians afterwards amputated one of her legs. In the confusion I have been unable to verify this. Major G. A. Le Frepont, one of Ethiopia's Belgian military advisers, was wounded in the arm.

The ten Italian planes soon were joined by twenty other capronis, bringing the total up to thirty. Fascinated, I watched the Emperor directing the fire of his anti-aircraft gunners, communicating to them the same fearless calm which he himself exhibited.

Suddenly he strode to one of the guns and gently pushed the man in charge of it away. He peered through the gun's sight and fired at an Italian plane directly overhead.

BURSTING ALL AROUND

Bombs burst all around us. Less than twenty feet from the Emperor a geyser of dirt and stones flew into the air as one of the explosives hit with a terrific impact. Then as I hurried toward the building where the wireless sending sets placed at the disposal of the correspondents here have been set up, I felt what seemed like the blow of a giant club at my leg. I fell to the ground, hit.

I crawled into a nearby building and received first aid. Then I was helped to the wireless station, where I sent out my story. It was only afterward that I began to feel the pain which is making it so difficult to dictate this account.

I heard unconfirmed reports that one of the thirty Italian planes was struck and crashed to the ground somewhere outside Dessye.

LAUNCH OFFENSIVE

ADDIS ABABA, Dec. 6 (CP-Havas).—Italy launched its third major offensive of the war today, with a series of air bombardments on both fronts preparatory to placing its armies on the move again after several weeks of comparative inactivity.

Marshal Pietro Badoglio's determination for a new advance toward this capital stood revealed tonight as all Ethiopia was warned to gird itself for a last-ditch fight to repel the invaders.

Besides the bombing of Dessye, four Ethiopian women and two children were killed by the six Italian planes which bombarded Gondar, near Lake Tana.

The planes dropped incendiary bombs on the town, starting fires which razed a number of civilians' homes, a dispatch which described the bombardment said.

MUSSOLINI OBDURATE

ROME, Dec. 6 (AP).—Premier Mussolini, informed sources said tonight, probably will defy the League of Nations when he addresses the opening session of Parliament tomorrow.

The Government remained obdurate despite the peace overture voiced yesterday by Sir Samuel Hoare, British Foreign Secretary, in an address in the House of Commons.

Mussolini is represented as determined to settle the crisis his own way. His way is a crushing victory over Ethiopia, with Emperor Haille Selassie suing for peace.

THE FARMERS' PLEDGE

Four million farmers were pledged by their leaders today to grow all the food Italy needs. They promised a speedy 20 per cent increase in rabbits and poultry.

Automobile owners began giving their old cars to the country. Gold came into the treasury in a steady stream. Gasoline prices have mounted to the equivalent of $1.08 a gallon. Christmas trees, most of which are imported, were banned this year.

SAYS BUSINESS HAS IMPROVED

Frank Teskey, President of Winnipeg Branch, Canadian Manufacturers' Ass'n, Visits Here

Business conditions in Manitoba are better, and people are optimistic about the new year, according to Frank Teskey, general manager of the Paulin Chambers Company, Limited, biscuit manufacturers, and president of the Winnipeg branch, Canadian Manufacturers' Association, who visited here yesterday with Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Gilliland, of this city.

He recently visited Churchill, and, in his opinion, it will be recognized some day as a commercial port. He pointed out the waters were navigable four months of the year, and the captains who frequent those waters regard the Hudson Bay as a feasible route to the markets of the world. Mr. Teskey explained considerable interest in the route was created as a result of his caravan of Chamber of Commerce delegates to Churchill.

Chiang Kai Shek Is Back in Office

Became Lost in Fierce Blizzard

CHURCHILL, Man., Dec. 6 (CP).—Simon Johnson, missing for two nights and a day on blizzard-swept Churchill River, arrived back here late today, apparently none the worse for his experience.

Johnson, who left here Tuesday night to attend a birthday party celebration two miles distant, became lost in a raging snowstorm, and wandered twenty miles up the river before he encountered a trapper's cabin which gave him his bearings.

added to the list of commodities included in sanctions applied against Italy.

Last Sunday, Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice and Acting Prime Minister, issued a statement to the effect that Dr. Riddell had been expressing his own personal ideas and was not acting on instructions from his Government when he made those proposals.

NOT AT ONCE OBVIOUS

The delay of almost a month in issuing the corrective statement was due, Mr. King said, to the fact that the Government was not seized at once with the fact that the wrong impression had gone abroad.

"When sections of the press, not necessarily in Canada, had stressed the point that it was Canada's proposal," Mr. King said, "we thought it advisable to make it clear that it was the proposal of the committee of eighteen. The Government will consider the proposal on its merits."

Some Government official would be assigned to replace Dr. Riddell on the committee of eighteen, the Prime Minister said, but it would not be, he thought, either Senator Raoul Dandurand or Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner in London. Senator Dandurand, a Minister without portfolio and Government leader in the Senate, is now in Europe and had been considered likely to go to Geneva.

GOING TO CHILE

Dr. Riddell is leaving for Chile, where he will represent Canada at the International Labor Conference opening January 2. He will be unable to attend the resumed meetings of the committee of eighteen on December 12.

"I would not like to say anything about Dr. Riddell," the Prime Minister replied when questioned as to the latter's return to Geneva. "I will wait until I have more information. He may have had good reasons for his actions."

Hearing of Status Case Is Delayed

VANCOUVER, Dec. 6 (CP).—Hearing of an application in British Columbia Supreme Court, asking Judge J. N. Ellis to show by what authority he supports his claim to "the Judge of the County Court of Vancouver" was adjourned today until Tuesday.

The application marks the second attempt to unseat Mayor G. G. McGeer as Member of Parliament for Vancouver-Burrard. The action taken by William Simpkin, merchant, seeks to establish that Judge Ellis' recount of Vancouver-Burrard ballots was illegal.

Volcano in Eruption in South Seas

SUVA, Fiji Islands, Dec. 7 (AP).—A volcano on Niufoo Island erupted today, sending streams of lava pouring into the sea.

Inhabitantes of one village on the tiny island left their quarters as a precautionary measure. Others on the island were reported safe. The lava was flowing over old beds, created by a volcanic eruption in 1929. The island is in the South Pacific.

Seattle Scene of Daring Robbery

SEATTLE, Dec. 6 (AP).—An armed man held up M. K. Park, a tavern manager, and robbed him of $400 tonight in the centre of the business district while crowds passed unaware of what was happening. Park told police the man held him up just inside the entrance to an alley into which he had driven his automobile after collecting receipts from a tavern.

MEDALS FOR MOTORISTS

BERLIN, Dec. 6 (CP-Havas).—Police contend it is not enough to fine bad motorists, so they have decided to reward the good ones as well. Gold and silver-plated medals will be struck and the automobilist who navigates the Wilhelmstrasse with safety to himself and others for a sufficient period of time will be awarded one.

RETURNING FROM HOLIDAY

That Scotland has a churchless million was emphasized at a recent church gathering in that country by a speaker, who said that if the children of this million were taken into account it would represent 40 per cent of the population of Scotland.

HELD CAPTIVE AFTER ROBBERY

Vancouver Man Reports Being Beaten by Gang Near Port Moody

VANCOUVER, Dec. 6 (CP).—Stanley J. Hudson, of Vancouver, reported to police today he had been beaten by a gang of men near Port Moody, B.C., on Wednesday, robbed of $38 and his watch and chain, "taken for a ride" in the automobile he was driving and held captive for one day in a deserted shack near Chilliwack, B.C.

Hudson declared he had rented an automobile for the purpose of driving to Port Moody, but made a wrong turn in heavy fog on Wednesday evening. As he was turning the car about he noticed a man, apparently hurt, lying beside the roadway.

LEAPED TO AID

Hudson stated he stopped the car and leaped to aid the man when three other men appeared and attacked him. He said he was struck in the face and lost consciousness.

When he came to his senses he found he was lying on the floor of the car with an overcoat wrapped about his head. After what seemed hours the car came to a stop and he was led into a shack. He said he was kept blindfolded there until Thursday when he was again placed in the car.

After driving some distance his abductors alighted from the car and he freed himself in time to see them disappearing into woods some distance away. He clambered into the front seat of the car and drove off. He found he was near Chilliwack.

REPORTED MISSING

During his absence the motor company had reported the car as missing, and when Patrolmen saw Hudson drive into Vancouver they stopped and questioned him. He told them of the alleged robbery and kidnapping.

TENTATIVE COMPROMISE

PEIPING, China, Dec. 6 (AP).—A tentative compromise agreement in North China's autonomy crisis was reported unofficially tonight to have been reached.

The Rengo (Japanese) News Agency said a temporary settlement had been effected at a conference between emissaries of the Chinese National Government and leaders of North China. This plan, Rengo stated, which will be submitted to Major-General Hayo Tada, Japanese military commander in North China, and to the Nanking Government, provides for the creation of a North China commission. This commission would be given wide powers of self-government and the new Nanking currency reform programme, involving nationalization of silver, would not be applicable to the region. Japan strongly opposes the currency plan.

HARD-HEARTED PARENTS

WINNIPEG, Dec. 6 (CP).—Winnipeg's school children may think their homework is too heavy, but their parents do not. Dr. J. C. Pincock, school superintendent, said today parents by a 20-to-1 majority favor increasing the children's nightly studies.

Museum Arranging Fourteen Lectures For Children Here

Francis Kermode Announces Resumption of Popular Series of Natural History Talks for School Groups in Victoria and District, January 11

FIVE thousand school children of Victoria, who, ever since the Kermode series of natural history talks at the Provincial Museum last Winter, have bombarded museum officials for a repetition of the programme, received their answer yesterday. Francis Kermode, director of the institution, announced a series of fourteen illustrated lectures for children to commence on January 11. It is hoped to arrange later for senior lectures as well.

Mr. Kermode explained that continuation of the popular feature was made possible through what is left of a modest grant received by the museum last year through the courtesy of the Carnegie Museums Committee for Canada, of which he is a member. The museum, he said, had been literally besieged for resumption of the series which last year drew 4,768 school children and 1,000 adults.

FRANCIS KERMODE

FOURTEEN FEATURES

Here is the programme of juvenile lectures, with the personnel of the speakers to be filled in later:

January 11, Animals of the Forest; January 18, Our Feathered Friends of the Garden; January 25, Life Along Our Seashores.

February 1, Arts and Crafts of Northwest Indians; February 8, Moths and Butterflies; February 15, Our Forests; February 22, Birds of Prey; February 29, Fishes of the Pacific Coast.

March 7, Beetles and Other Insects; March 14, Some Native Wild Flowers; March 21, Reptiles and Amphibians; March 28, Old Indian Village Sites.

April 4, Hoofed Animals of British Columbia, and April 11, Animal Life of the Sea.

As was the case last Winter, the lectures will be illustrated with lantern slides, and rounded off with real life motion pictures. The resident staff of the museum is assisting in the preparation of the series.

PIONEER PRODUCTION

VANCOUVER, Dec. 6 (?).—Gross production at Pioneer Gold Mines of British Columbia, Ltd., for November totaled $265,000. Expenses were $75,000, leaving net profit before taxes, depletion and depreciation of $190,000.

The gross was $5,000 less than in October and the net $16,000 less, due to an extra day in October and increased underground operations paid out of revenue.

Sheep Killings In Saanich Will Be Investigated

An investigation into reported sheep-killings by stray dogs will be conducted by R. R. F. Sewell, municipal clerk, the Saanich Council has decided.

The destruction of sheep was brought to the council's attention by the North and South Saanich Sheepbreeders' Association. Recently appeals for compensation had been received from breeders by the council.

After a short discussion is was decided to have a report submitted so that the council could be guided at its next session.

NATIONAL DAY NOW PROPOSED

Native Sons of Canada Suggest December 11 Be Observed Annually

Suggesting that December 11 be observed in Canada as a "National Day," as the fourth anniversary of the passing of the Statute of Westminster, the National Council of the Native Sons of Canada wrote yesterday to the Provincial Government. The letter was received without comment by Acting Premier Gray.

In a communication over the signature of David Joyal, national secretary-treasurer of the organization at Winnipeg, it was said, in part:

"We firmly believe that this National Day is not receiving the proper consideration which it deserves, and we have noticed with regret that the Canadian people do not realize the responsibility of nationhood which this act gave Canada."

The British Columbia Government was invited to take the initiative in respect to the flying of flags on December 11, and to encourage business houses and other agencies to follow suit.

DEATH CALLS PUBLIC MAN

chant & Futcher. The firm imported from the Orient and had showrooms on lower Fort Street.

LIBERAL CANDIDATE

Two years later he launched out into public life, running as a Liberal candidate for the Federal House with the late Senator William Templeman against the late Col. E. G. Prior and the late Thomas Earle.

Failing to secure election in this campaign, he turned his attention to the civic field and was elected to the school board one year later. He served on the school board for two years.

In 1898 he was appointed inspector of customs here, and in the same year ran again for the school board and was elected for another two-year term.

ELECTED MAYOR

He held the position of inspector of customs until 1921, and after his retirement again entered the civic field, opposing Mayor Robert Porter in the election of 1922. He was elected to office in a campaign that was fought on financial issues. The following year, 1923, he was defeated for mayor by Reginald Hayward, but, undaunted, Mr. Marchant fought his way back to the council in 1924, being elected as alderman. He retained that position until the end of 1929, and during the period fought vigorously for two financial policies, one the prepaid tax scheme in which so many property-holders participate today, and the "pay-as-you-go" policy, designed to minimize public borrowings and thereby keep down the debt rate.

As a member of the City Council, he represented that body on the board of directors of the Victoria Public Library and was its secretary for a number of years. When he went out of office as an alderman, he retained his position on the library board as a representative of the citizens. He was one of those instrumental in making application for the $55,000 Andrew Carnegie grant, which made possible the erection of the present library building in 1906.

GREAT DEBATER

His activities on the council will be remembered by many for years to come. He was a great debater in the parliamentarian sense, and contributed some brilliant and logical arguments, and fought out issues without that animosity that has a tendency to creep into contentious matters.

As a tribute to his leadership, and enthusiastic interest in public affairs, the Liberals of the Comox-Alberni riding a few years ago invited him to run in that constituency for the Federal House, but Mr. Marchant had to decline.

Mr. Marchant was a great leader in the Baptist Church of Western Canada. Almost within a year of his arrival in this city, he took part in the organization and establishment of the Emmanuel Baptist Church. He was a member of the church from its inception until his death. He played an important part in Baptist gatherings in Western Canada, and for a time was president of the Western Baptist Convention, which embraced the Prairies as well as British Columbia. He was a powerful and eloquent as a lay preacher, and carried his eloquence and force of argument into public life.

FEARLESS ADVOCATE

Mr. Marchant was radical in his political outlook, and was fearless in this regard. Despite the bitter opposition and threats leveled against him, he uttered frankly his protest against the Boer War, and at all times was an ardent advocate of peace and disarmament. He championed the cause of prohibition at a time when Victoria had many saloons. He also advocated proportional representation, and was a participant in single tax meetings in the days when Henry George's doctrines were maters of lively discussion here.

He contributed articles to newspapers, and at one time wrote a column in The Victoria Daily Times. He was an enthusiastic lawn bowler, and considered an expert at chess. He held the chess championship of Victoria at one time, and was an active, and one of the oldest members of the Victoria Ches Club.

KNEW PROVINCE

As inspector of customs, Mr. Marchant traveled up and down the British Columbia Coast and into the Yukon, and was familiar in every way with the needs of this province. Wherever he went, he formed friendships, and commanded the high respect of friend and opponent alike.

Upon hearing of his passing yesterday, Mayor David Leeming, who sat as alderman under Mr. Marchant, when the later was Mayor, issued the following tribute in memory of the deceased:

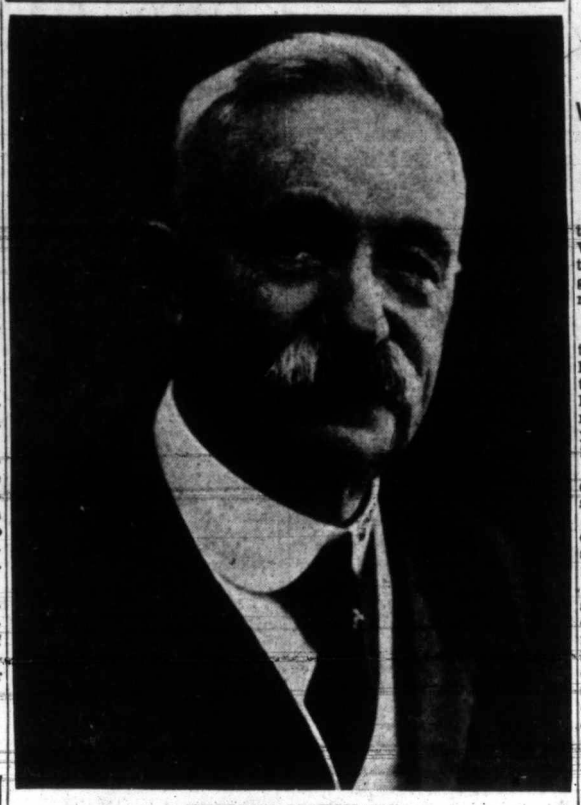

MAYOR'S TRIBUTE

"I'd like to pay tribute to his public service. I was an alderman under him in 1922 and knew and appreciated his aggressive work in the interests of the city.

"It was largely through Mr. Marchant's efforts that the system of tax prepayments, one of the most valuable aids and incentives in collections, was introduced.

"He was a leading figure in bringing the public library to Victoria, and spent many helpful years as a member of that board. I have enjoyed a personal contact with the family for many years, his son, Harold, having worked with me in private business in the late nineties.

Well-Known Citizen Dies

WILLIAM MARCHANT

"Always a great chess player, Mr. Marchant and I had many enjoyable games, and I look back with some pride upon a victory I scored over him in a city championship several years ago.

"He was a man with a great democratic idea, working for the interests of the City Hall employees, while he maintained a rigid stand against possible extravagant expenditures. During his terms in office he repeatedly stood for a policy of forbidding city borrowing without the approval of a strong loan board appointed by the Provincial Government.

"I am sure I voice the sentiments of a vast throng of citizens in expressing deepest condolence to his highly respected family."

Christmas trees around," he added as the officers picked him up and started back. Wet and shivering, Bobbie said he was pretty "hungry and thirsty," but didn't feel very bad otherwise.

Faithfulness of the sixty-pound husky, Bruno, was credited by rescuers with saving the lad from freezing to death. Each of the two nights he was out and during part of the days, Bobbie said he curled up beside the husky to keep warm.

TOOK WRONG TURN

He said he followed the dogs into the woods when the trio took the wrong turn while on their way from the hospital grounds on Wednesday afternoon. When found, they were two miles in the woods from the road.

Bobbie's return ended a forty-eight-hour search, during which more than seventy volunteers and Provincial Police combed the district in the vicinity of the hospital for trace of the missing boy. He has been living with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Dahling, who reside near the Essondale Hospital, where Dahling is night superintendent. Bobbie had gone to the institution to see his uncle and had started home again.

SAW DOG ON ROAD

Today Tony Mels, an Austin Road rancher, reported he had seen a dog answering the description of the husky on the road. He said he had followed for a short distance until it turned into the woods along an old logging trail.

Searchers, with the aid of a police dog, set out to search the area. The police dog led them two miles through heavy bush and woods to where Bobbie was sitting on a log with the husky standing guard beside him. About 200 yards distant the brindle pup stood beside another log.

Reginald Brown Pleads Guilty to Stealing Perfume From Stand At Fair

When Reginald Brown was called to explain reasons for taking perfume from the stand operated at the Winter Fair by Miss McDonald, after he had pleaded guilty to the offence in the city police court yesterday, he said that he had not taken the article with the intention of stealing, but simply as a prank. He did not think anything of the matter. He was sentenced to three months in jail.

Constable T. Banister testified to having found the goods on the accused. Miss McDonald said that about $5 worth of additional goods were taken. In turn she identified the accused as one of two young men who had engaged her in conversation and who had taken the goods.

The previous record of the accused was recalled by C. L. Harrison for the prosecution. In 1933 he had been allowed suspended sentence for the theft of auto tires. In 1935 there were two counts of having stolen property in possession, for which two months had been assigned in each case.

Victoria Medical Society Delivers Ultimatum to City Council

An ultimatum was presented to the City Council yesterday by the Victoria Medical Society in connection with its request for a $1,000 grant to take care of relief persons requiring medical treatment.

The ultimatum reads as follows:

"Replying to your lettetr of the third instant advising that our letter has been laid on the table, I beg to state that your council seems to have entirely failed to grasp the significance of our representations to you on the question of medical services to indigents.

"We feel that a settlement of this question is long overdue, and deserves your immediate attention.

"Our committee made it quite clear that they looked upon the city as fully responsible for caring for its indigent population.

"We cannot admit that their responsibility is in any way contingent on whether, or to what extent, you receive financial assistance from the Provincial Government, nor will a committee of our society in any way negotiate with the Provincial Government with reference to the value of our services to the city or the amount of money we are to receive for such services.

"Repeated representation has been made to your council by the medical society requesting more just treatment, only, as at present, to have the matter postponed, no satisfactory reason being given. You have had opportunity in the past to approach the Provincial Government for assistance, and, as we have mentioned before, the outcome of such negotiations does in no way affect the value of our services to you.

RESENT TREATMENT

"We feel that the treatment you are according us in this matter, which is one of extreme importance and is a grave responsibility of the city, is in marked contrast to your methods in handling certain other proposals which have a much more problematic value.

"While we are still open to any fair and reasonable counter-proposal by your council for a solution of your problem of caring for the sick indigent, we wish to again make it quite clear that the problem is your problem and not ours.

"Because for years we have voluntarily carried this burden for the city, until they have come to look upon it as their right and our duty, we feel that a proper respect for custom and opinion of society, requires that we give due and timely notice before any radical change is made that might affect the comfort or happiness of any individual.

"We will, therefore, state that on and after December 15, 1935, the medical profession of Victoria will cease to attend to sick indigents of Victoria, unless it be in an emergency, and then only during that emergency, after which all sick patients will be referred to the M.O.H. (medical health officer) of Victoria for such attention as he deems advisable."

NANAIMO SCHOOL TRUSTEES MEET

Consider Replacement of Fire Alarm System—Set Date for Presenting Certificates

NANAIMO, Dec. 6.—The resignation of Miss Carruthers, school nurse for the past four years, was accepted by Nanaimo Board of School Trustees tonight, with John Shaw presiding. A report of Seymour Towell, school supervisor, that the student council had estimated the cost of a buzzer system with an electric battery at $100, to replace the fire alarm system in the schools, led the board to refer the matter to the building committee to ascertain if the wiring of discarded telephone system could be used to replace the storage-battery gong system, maintained at considerable expense. Fire Chief Parkin has endorsed the change.

December 19 was set for the presentation of graduation certificates at an event to be held under the auspices of Nanaimo Board of School Trustees and the High School Students' Council. Prof. Ira Dilworth will be invited to speak and a programme will follow the presentation of diplomas.

Mr. Towell reported that a prize had been awarded Nanaimo by the Strathcona fund for physical education work in local schools and that Ian Isenheart stated that it is his opinion Nanaimo leads the province in this particular line of education.

Christmas Plans For Aged Chinese Are Being Made

Aged Chinese will be given a Christmas tree and supper this year, Mrs. R. B. Mosher announced last night, when expressing her appreciation of the public recognition of her work in this regard. A letter to the editor had been written expressing the hope that the Chinese would be taken care of this Christmas, and in the letter, tribute was paid to Mrs. Mosher's services in this regard.

Mrs. Mosher announced that she was already making plans to entertain the aged men at Christmas, and that the supper would be served in the hall above the Good Hope Mission, 526 Johnson Street.

She intends to approach the women's auxiliaries of the Anglican Church to seek their co-operation, and would appreciate any assistance that the public may wish to give. Those interested may get in touch with Mrs. Mosher at 2663 Orchard Street, or by telephoning Empire 9149.

FUTURE PEACE IS IN BALANCE

Harrison Brown, Journalist, Views Italo-Ethiopian Trouble as Serious

"The outcome of the present African adventure of Mussolini is all-important for the future peace of Europe," declared Harrison Brown, London, radio commentator on European events, and free lance political writer for London and New York newspapers, during an interview at the Union Club last night. Mr. Brown places much faith in Anthony Eden's abilities and capabilities to represent Great Britain in the matter.

Considerable attention centred on Mr. Brown following the Nazi massacre in Germany, when Hitler took exception to some of the journalist's articles about Germany that appeared in the London press. The visitor stated he left Berlin of his own accord, however.

"REASON IS TREASON"

He said reason was treason in Germany, and in Italy. In Europe, 65 per cent of the people, or 315,000,000 were under dictatorships, Mr. Brown declared, and added, "Nothing is static. The efforts of dictatorship to make humanity static renders it inevitable either that the dictatorship will disintegrate or that there will be explosions."

Asked whether he thought the League of Nations would make a gesture to permit Premier Mussolini to withdraw from Ethiopia, and "save face" at the same time, the journalist answered:

"He has been given opportunities galore. Since he has threatened law and order, this is no time to give him things. When a thug attacks a man on the sidewalk and is immediately surrounded by other men who can stop him, it is not a time to say 'We will give you $100 to go away'."

UNABLE TO PREDICT

Just what the outcome of the trouble will be, the visitor said, he was unable to predict, so uncertain was the situation.

However, he thought Mussolini was bluffing. There was nothing to indicate, at the moment, that the sanctions against Italy would be enforced to the limit, he observed.

Speaking of tht German situation, the journalist explained Hitler's autocracy fed on emotionalism, not on thought. From this emotion came the terror, and the fact that torture was an integral part of the Nazi system. The blood-lust fanned by emotion must be fed, he said.

JEWS AS SCAPEGOATS

The real horror of the persecution of the Jews was that they were being maintained as a permanent whipping-boy, as a special scapegoat. Mr. Brown declared they had been reduced to the barest existence, every outrage was tolerated, but they would not be eliminated.

Mr. Brown has been speaking to Canadian Clubs across the continent, and this is his first visit to Western Canada. He termed his trip as a "magnificent journey," and intimated the scenery throughout Canada was grander than anything he had seen before, although he had traveled widely.

MAYOR LEEMING'S FIFTH TERM

Mr. David Leeming seems to have established something in the nature of a pre-emption on the mayoralty of Victoria. He will enter next year on his fifth term in this office, and that he should have been returned by acclamation on the present occasion is a tribute to the place that he enjoys in the estimation of the public. There is no question of the degree of conscientiousness that Mr. Leeming has brought to bear on the duties of the office. He has been indefatigable in all his tasks, and there are a multiplicity of them. Perhaps no Mayor in all the history of Victoria has ever been more assiduous in attendance at public and semi-public functions. This is a duty that is often onerous and takes more out of a man than might be generally believed. Mr. Leeming has not spared himself. He has regarded himself in every respect as a public functionary, and he has brought enthusiasm and zest to the performance of every succeeding duty.

What there is to be admired about the Mayor is his earnestness and his genuine concern regarding civic problems and the life of the city in all its aspects. He has given of his utmost in the way of service, and perhaps because of over-anxiety in this way his health has suffered. He has practised the doctrine of a wholetime mayor and in pursuit of this it is altogether to his credit that, outside the routine duties of the City Hall, he has been in all ways instrumental in throwing himself whole-heartedly into whatever project is devised for community progress. This has been illustrated in one way by the part he has played in the purposes of the Tourist Trade Development Association, which has done so much to bind the different interests of Vancouver Island into a whole imbued with the desire for unity in action. Mr. Leeming has been an inspiring force in this particular as well as in so many others which make for development. The devotion which he bestows on whatever task in which he is engaged is an asset of high value to the community when it is coupled with the sound experience he has had and a well-balanced judgment. The citizens as a whole will wish him another fruitful year of performance and the rounding out of those policies for civic advancement which he has been instrumental in framing.

ALBERTA'S FINANCES

The deficit in the Alberta budget on March 31 next will be, according to Mr. Charles Cockroft, Provincial Minister of Municipal Affairs, $9,000,000, although the apparent deficit will be only $4,500,000. There is now a plan afoot to reduce expenditures, but no matter what the reductions contemplated, it will be necessary also to increase taxes substantially. Next Spring a sum of $2,500,000 will be needed for agricultural relief, including the purchase of seed, feed and for general purposes. It is small wonder, because of the financial position in that Province, that Mr. R. B. Bennett should point out that among the four Western Provinces facing bankruptcy Alberta stands out like a beacon light. If Premier Aberhart is really in earnest about his doctrine of Social Credit and believes that a national dividend is possible by his economic plan, then the first beneficiary should be his own Government. It needs a national dividend in the worst way to reinforce its falling fortunes.

REGIMENTATION OF TEACHERS

Early in the year it was reported in the press that the Teachers' Federation of the Province intended to ask the Legislature to pass a bill requiring all teachers to become members of the Federation. The Federation, it seems, has gathered into its organization a considerable number of teachers. These individuals have joined up of their own free will. There remain, however, a number of teachers who do not want to be unionized. They are strongly individualistic in opinion and temperament. They believe that the public interest was better served in the old days when teachers' federations did not exist and would be better served today if the federations did not exist. The bill is intended to exclude from the public schools any teacher who is unfriendly to the trade-union federation idea in education.

Very recently, word has come from Manitoba to the effect that something of the kind is to be attempted in that Province. The officials of the Federation there have conceived the ingenious idea of inviting those teachers who are already members of the Federation to express an opinion by ballot upon the question whether membership in the organization should be made compulsory. The Federation Executive has announced that if 75 per cent of the ballots are marked in the affirmative, steps will be taken to secure the necessary legislation. Clearly, the ambitious executive officials of the Federation believe, or hope, that if 75 per cent of their members express a desire to tyrannize over their fellow-teachers, the Legislature will place the seal of its approval upon the scheme.

The idea of the Executives of the Federation in both Provinces is that the strength of their organization depends not upon the members weight, intellectual calibre, and active moral purposes of its voluntary membership, but upon something very different, namely, upon destroying the rights of minorities in order to make it appear that the whole body of teachers speak with one voice through the mouth of the Federation. It is probable that if the Federation officials go to the Legislature with a bill to compel all teachers, willing and unwilling alike, to join the Federation, the legislators will ask if the Federation officials have taken leave of their senses.

A few years ago, if it had been seriously proposed that the Government of the country should hand over to the officials of a Teachers' Union the right to exclude from active service in the schools anyone who ventured to hold opinions of which those officials disapproved, such a proposal would have met with prompt and general condemnation. It would have been regarded as on the whole too absurd for discussion, but if a serious answer were given it would probably take some such form as the following: The schools, it would be pointed out, are established by society at large acting through representative agencies. The Government with its advisory and official staffs and inspectors and boards of trustees are the responsible agencies through which the schools are operated according to the ascertained needs and desires of the social order. Teachers form part of the civil service of the community. They are not the rulers of society but the paid civil servants thereof. The Government of the country cannot abdicate its powers and invite an ambitious group of civil servants to enter into control of the whole educational situation and dictate public policy in respect of the personnel of the educational service.

The public schools should not be handed over to the management of any self-appointed committee of school teachers, but should remain where they are at present under the control and direction of a responsible Minister of the Crown.

MR. WILLIAM MARCHANT

The late Mr. William Marchant was a man of strong convictions, but always single-minded in his purposes. He was a type of citizen who took a deep interest in the life of the community, and it was symptomatic of this that he had not been resident here for more than a few years before he ran as a Liberal candidate for the Federal House. His defeat did not dampen his ardor, for he turned his thoughts to municipal affairs and became a School Trustee. On being appointed to a Federal Government post in the Customs his political activities were cut short, but he resumed them when superannuated, became Mayor of the city and subsequently served on the aldermanic board for several years.

Mr. Marchant was an earnest Christian, a mild radical in his political beliefs, a temperance advocate and an exponent of the single tax doctrine. He was courageous and outspoken in his utterances and held his convictions with a faith which nothing could shake. His earnestness deeply impressed all who knew him, and this characteristic made him many friends. During a residence of nearly fifty years he was an undoubted asset to civic life. All who knew him will extend their deep sympathy to his son and daughter who are left.

If Sir Frederick Keeble is to be believed, there is not a perfect meal save manna and nectar, and this meal has not been enjoyed since the gates of Paradise closed on our first parents. He is taken to task by one paragraphist who says: "Nonsense, my dear professor. Let me tell you about the black honey with pain grille and coffee I ate for breakfast one morning at Camprodon; or the hot rolls that the Jew with side curls thrust into my hands at Volovec; or the cold boiled potatoes with butter I used to eat for lunch in the bay near Le Lavandou, or the hunk of bread and the drink of spring water I had below the Col de Nuria; or the mountain mutton and Carrigeen shape with cream at Malin Beg; or the troutlet grilled on a hot stone by the burn that runs into Loch na Keal."

The lot of the inventor, no matter how successful, is not always one of happiness. Mr. Ludwig Blattner was found hanging dead at a country club at Elstree recently. He was the inventor of the Blattnerphone, which records sound magnetically on thin steel tapes, which are wound on drums like cinema films. An adaptation of this is largely used by the British Broadcasting Corporation and is known as the Marconi Sille system of steel tape sound recording. This device has been largely used for the rebroadcasting of important events. Through it the wedding of the Duke of Kent last year was heard in Canada, as well as some of the Jubilee celebrations.

Lucky he who has been educated to bear his fate, whatever it may be, by an early example of uprightness, and a childish training in honor.—Thackeray.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

Principles do not mainly influence even the principled: we talk on principle, but we act on interest.—Landor.

There is an old saying that to the victors belong the spoils. That old saying is capable of more than one application. We have seen it applied to politics. We have more than a suspicion that it is being applied politically down in the neighborhood of Ottawa at the present time. There was a time when it was applicable to war, but in modern times that application is not always justified. In the late Great War the spoils went to the neutrals and the losses to the belligerents. The same thing is happening in the war (or whatever it may be) between Italy and Ethiopia. It is because the same thing is happening that we see so much in the papers about the rights of neutrals.

The agitation about the rights of neutrals directs attention again to some of the peculiarities of human nature. When there is a war in Europe that is an opportunity for America. And when we say an opportunity for America we mean Canada as well as the United States and the states of South America. We have heard Canadian farmers express hopes for a European war, although we have never heard them actually pray for war. The reason for cherishing such an impious hope was that when there was a war anywhere or of any kind the price of wheat always went up. There may have been no economic or logical reason for this phenomenon. The reason for it may have been merely speculative. Neverless it was a fact. When war broke out in any part of Europe, there may have been no outward manifestations of joy, but there were inward feelings of exultation at the prospects of war prices.

Be these things as they may, we are reading a great deal in the newspapers of this continent about the rights of neutrals. The neutrals are standing upon their rights because they have goods to sell, which they hope to sell at war prices. We gather from what we read that the neutrals would not be averse to fighting for the purpose of maintaining their rights as non-combatants. For a certain purpose the neutrals are pacifists. For their own purposes they are belligerents.

* * *

That excellent paper, The Christian Science Monitor, has been discussing this question exhaustively in a series of admirable articles, pointing out that there may be dangers in neutrality even for a powerful nation like the United States. Our contemporary does not state positively, but it hints at the fact that the neutrality of the late President Wilson ultimately involved the republic in the Great War. As a neutral the United States did an enormous business with all the powers engaged in the war at enormous profits. It was the big neutral and it enjoyed practically all the opportunities. It furnished the goods and it lent the money to carry the war to a successful issue. There were so many advantages in the position of neutrality that at one period in the hostilities there was a crisis in the affairs of Britain and the United States. In its duty of policing the seas the British Admiralty exercised the right of detention and search, and that was a violation of the doctrine of freedom of the seas. The Admiralty maintained its position and the then President composed his ruffled plumes.

In the less important matter of the war in Africa there are neutrals in the United States, and there appears also to be neutrals in Canada, who assert they have their rights and dare maintain them. The American neutrals claim the Government has gone too far in proclaiming neutrality; that as neutrals they have their rights, that rights provide opportunities, and they are going to take advantage of them, even if they have to appeal to the United States Supreme Court to upset the decrees of the President. They have goods to sell to any nation, and they are determined to sell them as long as the purchasers have the means to pay for them. If the Italians want oil or cotton or munitions or guns of all calibres, as neutrals they have the right to supply them. Opportunities have not been abundant at home for several years, therefore why should foreign opportunities be denied them?

* * *

There is another illustration of the reasoning of human nature—not necessarily of American human nature, but of human nature in the aggregate. Business is business, and the question of morality or of ethics does not enter therein. The Monitor argues that if the financial interests of the United States with the powers of Europe had not been so enormous, due to excessive war profits accumulated during the period of neutrality, that country might not have been involved in the Great War. That, of course, is merely a matter of speculation, and discussion of it would be profitless.

Sport Forecasts

I see where Adrienne, the international psychic marvel, is doing some fancy forecasting these days. She says that James J. Braddock and Louis will meet next September and that the former will win because the Detroit "Bomber" has yet to meet a man with any heart to him. It was the same psychic wizard who forsaw the defeat of Baer by Braddock. Two days before the Morro Castle disaster she interrupted a dinner party to say that in the very near future a boat, whose initial was "M" would burn at sea. Furthermore she predicted during mid-season that Stanford and Southern Methodists would clash at the annual Rose Bowl grid game New Year's Day. If Braddock happens to beat Louis I think Madame Adrienne will be the only person in the world to pick the fight "right."—J.D.

Same Old Flag, Though

We respectfully call attention of Army officials to the soot-blackened Union Jack atop the Armories. Its present condition it reminds one of the Jolly Roger . . . This is the time of the year young men break off friendships with the girls—so they will not have to buy them Christmas presents . . . We hear English is being boycotted in Italy. Tourists tell us it is usually murdered there . . . The boss told us it was time we settled down and took a wife. Whose wife? A careful motorist approached a railway crossing. He stopped, looked and listened. All he heard was the automobile behind him crashing into his rear fenders . . . The modern girl has decided her face can be her fortune—or her misfortune . . . We hear an ex-government engineer is about to start up in the radio business in Oak Bay, and will make a specialty of locating and curing noises which interfere with reception. We wish him every success. He has at least ten years work ahead of him here in his chosen field.—G.B.

"My First Dollar"

The startling intimation that someone in the newspaper profession once made a dollar, led me to drop all other research yesterday, to trace the accuracy or otherwise in this brash assertion. The answer it appears, is both 'yes' and 'no.' A dollar was once made by a highly respected member of the newspaper profession in this city, but he did not make it in the newspaper game! As a youth, he collected bottles and coal oil cans, selling these at ten cents per dozen and five cents apiece, respectively. A promising young merchant was lost when Victoria gained one of her brightest and best-natured newshounds. He still remembers that dollar!—S. G.

Green-Eyed Monster

While a photographer at the Royal Victoria Theatre a few evenings ago was posing the entire cast of "The Chocolate Soldier," for a flashlight photo, the hero, who looked rather solemn, was requested to smile a little and show his teeth. "Which ones?" shouted his hated rival in the opera. Had Strauss anticipated this kind of repartee in his opera he might have composed some musical equivalent of "Miaow!"—J.E.M.B.

The Other Side

One reporter's prayer: All I ask is, Give me the breaks. If somebody breaks into the bank, breaks his neck, or someone else's, breaks the peace, breaks a record, breaks jail or breaks through the ice, grant that the story may break for me.—R.L.P.

A wealthy lady remarked at a dinner party:

"Oh, Mr. Gilbert, your friend Mr. Sullivan's music is really too delightful. It reminds me so much of dear Baytch (Bach). Do tell me: What is Baytch doing just now? Is he still composing?"

"Well, no, madam," Gilbert replied. "Just now, as a matter of fact, dear Baytch is by way of decomposing."

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS

Sir, — After reading statements credited to Mayor Leeming, in both The Times and The Colonist, at the City Council meeting on Monday last, I am convinced it is time the old-timers on the City Council should be voted out of office at the next city election.

A really strong man could beat Mayor Leeming after the statement that the electors of the city of Victoria have no right to vote on either the publicity bureau or the Police Commission. What is Mayor Leeming afraid of, as one alderman asked the same evening. Then, too, why cannot the newspapers get all the information at Police Commission meetings? We all believe Victoria to be the most law-abiding city on the American continent, so why cannot we be allowed to vote as to what kind of Police Commission we want? Why, of all places, should a law-abiding city like Victoria be made an exception to any other city or town in the province of British Columbia?

When the Mayor or any of the aldermen loses faith in the electors, and cannot trust a referendum to their intelligence, it is time we voted out the Mayor and any mossback aldermen, and put in some new blood.

Vote for new aldermen this election; maybe they can, after the election, enlighten us as to what is wrong.

THE PRICE OF BREAD

Sir,—Bread has gone up, flour has gone down. What can we do about it? Were there an adequate reason the consumer would acquiesce; as it is, he curses.

People talk vaguely to the effect that the Government should "put a stop to it," and when reminded that that "hope bubble" burst long ago, hopelessly shrug their shoulders.

I wonder if a public bakery, or one run by those willing to co-operate, would bring the bakers to reason.

OUR BEACHES

Sir,—As a resident of Victoria for many years, and as such enjoying walks along Dallas Road and other roads along the city's foreshore, I feel I must add my complaints to numerous ones voiced in your paper—and many from non-residents—regarding the condition of our beaches, due to our present antiquated system of dumping garbage in the straits opposite Victoria, resulting in tin cans, grapefruit skins, bottles, and other refuse, floating back on incoming tides, and being deposited on the foreshore from the Outer Wharf to Oak Bay, and no doubt further up the coast.

Surely, with all the complaints lodged, it is high time those in charge of these matters "bestir themselves" and bring in some more up-to-date method of disposal of garbage. It seems to me, as we are on the eve of a civic election, if some new aspirant to office would make this a "plank" in his platform, he would have the support of most of our residents—a support I submit he would be justly entitled to.

THAT DIAMOND RING!

Sir,—I have stupidly lighted the fire with today's paper, instead of yesterday's, but not before I had "given it the once-over," and noticed an item revealing the fact that "Merriman" had cajoled or taunted somebody into buying a diamond ring as a prize, and that now no one knew on what challenge, or for what achievement, to award it—(is that correct?)—and that therefore suggestions from the general public are invited?

Being nothing if not responsive (especially in controversial matters) I again rush in where angels will presumably remain as usual coldly aloof.

My first reaction came in the form of a query: "But who on earth, here and now, wants a diamond ring, anyhow? Unless as a symbol?" Because it's no use hedging round a prize with hurdles of conditions unless you first provide a course likely to attract the riders who yearn for such a prize. Do men want diamond rings? No . . . not men. Do women? No . . . though men, curiously, generally think they do . . . for women (here and now) either have no time or suitable occasion for the display of such an aggressive bauble, or they are already domiciled on that Easy Street where diamond rings are, like the proverbial dukes, three-a-penny. The only use of such valuables today, to most women, is their sellableness; and diamond rings aren't sellable. Perhaps one woman in a thousand has a hidden yearning for so doubtful a blessing—but you want a big field for a really thrilling race—to make the prize worth the canter, even from the symbolic point of view.

High school girls seem to offer at first sight the widest field of aspirants, but isn't everything done nowadays to attract the young?

What about the diamond women? Those who have reached, and passed perhaps, the diamond jubilee of life—their fiftieth birthday? Whoever bothers to organize races for them? Whether they be grannies or aunts—two of the most important classes of human on this funny old sphere? They in their High School days, or in the hard-working days corresponding thirty-five years ago to that vital period, probably did long for a diamond ring, and to race for one now hight provide at least the thrill of long-renounced opportunity, and, for one of them, the belated fulfilment of a dream! And, come to think of it, have any of them ever received the recognition they deserve?

What, then, is the most valuable thing the "diamond woman" could ever do, or has ever done, in life? Not only in the comparatively narrow realm of wifehood, but on the open ranges of bachelordom? I know! Let that ring be offered to the woman of fifty or over who is most popular with children! That gives an equal chance to every diamond-aged woman; and is there, anywhere in life, a higher test of all-round citizenship?

Let the voters be children between the ages of seven and twenty-one, and let each school nominate, say, twenty-five or thirty women in its own district. There's your field! Or, better still, do it without nominations. And won't the children love it? Let polling booths be provided—and if there's a tie, let the winners draw lots. One stipulation should be residence in the province, or on the Island perhaps, for, say, twenty years or more.

In such a race, I can imagine that the prize of even a diamond ring would mean to that diamond woman the greatest joy of her life—perhaps the only joy that for a long while has come into her life! And afterwards, knitting perhaps by a rather lonely fireside, or among a horde of youngsters, every flash of that ring in the firelight would bring dreams as vivid, as varied, as glorious, as any of the dreams they dreamt in the silver and golden ages so far behind them.

CREDIT

Sir,—In your leader on "Bank Loans and Deposits" you state that the axiomatic outcome of Sir Thomas White's explanation is that credit rests upon the financial worth, or capital, and business capabilities of borrowers, and Sir Thomas says that if these "were not deemed adequate security by the bank, the loan and so-called deposit would never have come into being."

I submit, sir, that the real issue lies in those words "deemed adequate by the bank," which simply mean that the loan depends upon the "guess" of the bank's officers that the would-be borrower is a "safe bet."

The community, fundamentally, is concerned only with the production, distribution and consumption of goods and services according to its needs. These goods and services represent the only real wealth. Financial wealth is not real wealth, but is of importance only as long as it provides an effective claim, a channel to real wealth, a means to an end: the lifeblood of the community.

What, however, is the actual situation today? What is a "safe bet?" Financial credit, money, exists as an end in itself, is created as a commodity for sale at a profit to one who at some future date can return that financial credit. A situation which as far as the welfare of the whole community is concerned is just about as ridiculous as would be the spectacle of blood for transfusion being sold only to a small minority of full-blooded persons while the vast majority suffering from anaemia are unable to pass the test or guess of adequacy necessary for a supply of blood.

Anyone with banking or accounting experience will recall many instances of a bad guess. No doubt one of your local bank managers will recall at my hint, an affair elsewhere involving a line of credit for $70,000 on nothing more or less initially than a "shoestring," with dire results to his bank. Just think of the guesses made by the two Canadian banks heavily involved in Cuban sugar, and it would be interesting to learn the real facts about Sir Herbert Holt's guess in regard to Wall Street during a disastrous sky-the-limit session. Think of the British "Big Five" and the Hatry affair.

We have advanced to the extent that traders who "corner" a primary product such as wheat are generally condemned by society. We look aghast upon war with its toll of death. And yet, just as we note with more or less indifference the more costly murderous toll of the automobile, so we permit, without question, the existence of a financial system (system, not individuals) which like a frankenstein beyond control, "corners" the life-blood of the community.

The time used is Pacific standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Esquimalt drydock, add 18.9 feet to the height of high water as above given.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Songhees drydock, add 20 feet to the height of high water as above given.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily British Colonist of December 7, 1885)

Rifle Inspection—The Victoria Rifle Company mustered last Saturday for the annual inspection. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon, Colonel Holmes, D.A.G., the inspecting officer, arrived attended by his aide, Lieutenant Snowden, R.C.G.A., when the men were put through a variety of exercises by their officers, Captain Green and Lieutenant Wollacott. After an hour's drill, the men were formed up. The inspecting officer then complimented them highly on the creditable manner in which the various evolutions were performed, and also upon their smart and soldierly appearance, only regretting that there was not a larger turnout. The men were then dismissed, and may not be called on again till Spring when the regular weekly drills will commence.

Lighting by Electricity—A local company has been formed to light private houses and business places by electricity on the Brush system, and the town will be canvassed for customers.

The Onderdonk Plant—Messrs. Reed and Clarke have completed their work of inspecting the Onderdonk rolling stock, and arrived in the city yesterday. They made a most thorough examination of the plant, and will look well after the interests of the Government. Both gentlemen leave for Ottawa on Monday morning, where they will meet Messrs. Onderdonk and Haney, and finally settle the amount to be paid for the material.

WRITES PRAISE AND CRITICISM

Alameda Resident Pleased With Courtesy Received While on Visit Here

An interesting answer to a questionnaire sent out by the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau to a resident of Alameda, Cal., who visited the city this Summer, was received yesterday at the Bureau.

The letter read in part as follows: "First, your publicity department is doing good work. We were able to find plenty of information from pamphlets and maps at any number of travel agencies and bureaus in department stores here. We entered Canada at Cardston, through Calgary, Lake Louise, Banff, Golden, Harrison Hot Springs to Vancouver, across to Nanaimo and down to Victoria. We liked Victoria far the best, and found things more truly as we had wanted than any other place we visited. . . .

CLERKS COURTEOUS

We found clerks and salespeople courteous, regardless of the amount of purchase; this especially was noted in your many small fine shops.

"As a conscientious criticism, why does not your department do something to improve the road from Nanaimo to Victoria? We admit at the same time that it was as good as any we found in Canada. Also, I would advertise clearly the Nanaimo route more, as so many tourists do not know of it, or learn too late. Your Island is beautiful, and, with a better, less curved and wider road for better driving, people could appreciate it more instead of having to devote their entire attention to driving.

"One thing more. You of the publicity department have approximately six months in which to instill in your tradespeople the advantages of the tourist trade. Give your 'pep' talks then, advertise then; don't wait until we get there.

"We (tourists) realize we are there to be 'plucked,' we expect it. It is just plain good business for everyone—more success to you—but be a little more subtle about it. The constant reminder by placards in your daily newspapers, on the backs of menus, etc., of 'Welcome, Tourists,' lacks that certain finesse given to the British-Canadians. 'Encourage your tourists' is a good slogan, but much too blatant, and I'm sure a great many tourists resent so obvious a sign of 'The suckers are here, stick them hard.'

"Direction signs are good, something we found amiss elsewhere. We thought prices and rates reasonable, except ferry rates, which were much too high. Your people should bless the State of California, for without doubt it alone does much to improve business. On the boat crossing to Port Angeles were twenty-four California cars, two Washington, one Oregon and one British Columbia licence. We met people in our auto camp from here, Alameda, Oakland and San Francisco, so we felt entirely at home."

ONTARIO PROCLAIMS POWER LEGISLATION

ranged by the hydro-electric commission during former Conservative administrations.

Prolonged negotiations between the Government and representatives of the four companies followed passage of the power act early this year. These ended tonight when Premier Hepburn said the companies had failed to submit "any offer which was possible of acceptance."

He told company representatives the question of future purchases of power, "on the distinct understanding that no more power will be purchased than is actually required," would be referred to the hydro commission.

POWER FROM GATINEAU

No power is now being received by the commission from Beauharnois, McLaren or Chats Falls, and a limited amount of approximately 85,000 horsepower is being taken from Gatineau on the primary demand for about 113,000 for steam generation purposes.

The Cabinet "fully considered" the offers during a lengthy session, it was announced, "and in view of the altogether unsatisfactory offers received and the inability of the company representatives to surrender the contracts for revision without further authority from the bondholders, it was decided that the act must be proclaimed. An order-in-council was accordingly passed and the fact was announced to the companies."

BLOW TO CREDIT

MONTREAL, Dec. 6 (CP).—Proclamation of the Ontario Government's power legislation canceling contracts with Quebec power companies was "an irreparable blow to the Dominion's national credit," John S. Norris, president of the Beauharnois Power Corporation, Limited, one of the four companies concerned, declared here tonight. Mr. Noris is also president of the Beauharnois Light, Heat & Power Company.

"I'm sure I don't know what can be done now in the matter," he added. "It was bad enough when the legislation was hanging fire; now that it is proclaimed, I believe the damage is irreparable."

ARBITRARY ANNULMENT

The legislation Mr. Norris characterized as an "arbitrary annulment of contracts." He added that refusal of the Ontario Government to bring the entire matter before the courts was a blow to national credit.

"While bondholders will bear the initial brunt," he concluded, "each man, woman and child in Canada will suffer eventually."

Mr. Norris urged bondholders not to sacrifice their bonds "as a consequence of the annulment of the contracts. Possibly something may intervene to allay the affect of the cancellation."

Woman Motorist Given Fine for Faulty Driving

Mrs. Jessie Anderson was convicted in the city police court yesterday of driving to the common danger on November 7, when her automobile collided with the street car proceeding along Superior Street from the Outer Wharf. The evidence of Mrs. Anderson was that her auto refused to answer the wheel when she tried to turn it off the street car lines. Constable S. Holmes, who was called in rebuttal, testified that he had manipulated the wheel of the auto when it was towed to the side of the road after the accident. He said the steering wheel guided the car all right and there seemed nothing wrong with it.

H. W. R. Moore, for the defence, argued that this was a case where an accident occurred without any driving to the common danger. There might have been an error of judgment on the part of the defendant, he said.

C. L. Harrison, for the prosecution, pointed out there was a violation of the statutory requirement that ordinary care must be exercised by a driver at all times.

Magistrate Jay agreed there was a failure to drive in a prudent manner. The defendant, he said, had swung across the car tracks in the direction of an approaching street car, when there was no necessity. He imposed a fine of $15.

DEATH TAKES L. D. M'LEAN

Former Head of New Method Laundry Succumbs—Funeral Monday

THE LATE L. D. McLEAN

The varied career of Lauchlan Donald McLean, resident of Victoria since 1911 and a prominent businessman here, which carried him from the Middle Western States to Alaska, Texas and other portions of the North American continent, ended in his death on Thursday at the family residence, 1014 Empress Avenue. He had been ill for eight years.

Mr. McLean was born in Dunvegan, Glengarry County, Ont. He studied at business college in Minneapolis and was engaged in business, newspaper work, the office side of theatrical management, and finally held a position with the United States Department of Justice for five and a half years.

TWO YEARS IN ALASKA

In 1900 Mr. McLean was sent to Nome under United States Government orders. He spent two years in Alaska and it was at this time he gave the story of "The Spoilers" to his friend, Rex Beach. Mr. McLean entered the service of the Bell Telephone Company as general contract agent with the Southwestern Telephone Company at Dallas, Texas.

Later he moved North to accept a post of commercial superintendent with the Interstate Telephone Company, with headquarters at Butte, Mont., and Spokane, Wash.

The deceased moved to Victoria to make his home in 1911 and shortly after his arrival incorporated the New Method Laundry. This business he controlled until ill-health forced him to retire from active participation in business.

The deceased was well known in his younger days as an athlete and for many years held the 100-yard sprint championship of the Middle West.

ARDENT ROTARIAN

Mr. McLean was for many years an ardent Rotarian and also prominent in Masonic circles. He was a member of Gizeh Temple Shrine, Royal Arch and Preceptory. Mr. McLean was also well known as a sleight-of-hand artist and was a member of the American Society of Magicians. He was also a skilled violinist, mandolinist and cornetist and was always willing to assist in charitable concerts or entertain his friends.

Mr. McLean is survived by his widow, Mrs. Catherine E. McLean, here; three sisters, Mrs. A. L. Adams, Los Angeles; Mrs. Alex Nedden, Dallas, Texas, and a sister in Minneapolis; and two half-brothers in New York.

"Andy" Linton of Vancouver Passes

VANCOUVER, Dec. 6 (C).—Andrew Linton, pioneer Vancouver boat builder, died at his home here yesterday after a short illness. He was eighty-five years old and had resided here since 1880.

Born in New Brunswick, Mr. Linton came to Vancouver when thirty-two years of age and started in the boat building business, retiring ten years ago. He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Thomas McCann, of Eureka, Calif.

Two elderly gentlemen, hard of hearing, were riding on a bus in London. One glanced out of the window and said:

"Oh, this must be Wembley."

"No," said the other, "it's Thursday."

"I am, too," replied the first, "so let's go and have a drink."

For Bad Cough, Mix This Splendid Remedy, at Home

Needs No Cooking! Big Saving!

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this easily prepared mixture and try it for a distressing cough. It is no trouble to mix, and costs but a trifle, yet it can be depended upon to give quick relief.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water for a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. Get a 2½ ounce bottle of Pinex from any druggist, put it into a 16 ounce bottle and fill up with your sugar syrup. The 16 ounces thus made gives you four times as much cough remedy for your money, and is a very effective remedy for coughs. Keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

This splendid remedy soothes the irritated membranes, loosens the phlegm and helps to clear the air passages. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine in concentrated form, well known as a soothing agent for winter coughs. Money refunded if it does not please you in every way.

Mantha Signed Up

MONTREAL, Dec. 6 (C).—Sylvio Mantha, playing manager of Canadiens, of the National Hockey League, holds a one-year contract, President J. Ernest Savard said here tonight.

He had been earlier reported as having said Mantha's contract was for two years, but "my remarks must have been misconstrued." At a dinner given the veteran defenceman, who took over the managerial reins at the start of this season, Savard emphasized that, no matter what happened, Mantha would manage the club throughout the 1935-36 season, "but someone misinterpreted the dates to mean two years."

Savard said the club was "eminently satisfied" with Mantha's work.

GIVES TALK ON ANCIENT EGYPT

E. E. Richards Lectures on Biblical Country and Shows Collection Of Lantern Slides

E. E. Richards, one of Victoria's better-known lecturers on Bible prophecy, gave another of his educational talks on Biblical countries at the Chamber of Commerce Auditorium last night. His subject was "Egypt" and he showed a fine collection of lantern slides which indicated the progress that had taken place in the last half-century.

The collection included some of the tombs of the ancient rulers of Egypt, the mosques of the caliphs, the Great Pyramid and the ruins of the temples of the great. Mr. Richards' lecture started at the border of the British Sudan and continued down the Nile, 1,500 miles, to the Delta, where the mighty river flows into the Mediterranean Sea. He also described the great dams constructed by British engineers to bring more land under cultivation on the banks of the Nile.

Te lecture was opened with the reading from Scripture, followed by a hymn and the Lord's Prayer. Rev. Canon Hinchliffe was chairman and two solos were sung by Arthur Jackman.

BOARD DECLINES TO ALTER RULES

Exchange Surcharges on Freight Shipments Between Canada and U.S. to Stand

OTTAWA, Dec. 6 (C).—The Board of Railway Commissioners, in a judgment issued today, declined to alter its rules covering exchange surcharges on freight shipments between Canada and the United States concerning which a complaint had been made by the Vancouver Board of Trade.

The surcharges are made to equalize payments to Canadian and American railways when the funds of either country are at a discount or premium over the other. The complaint alleged that lumber and shingle exporters whose usual practice was to have their products shipped charges collect in the United States, were placed at a disadvantage by the rulings.

The judgment said the instances cited in the evidence appeared to be confined to traffic where the charges were borne by the United States receiver and not by the Canadian shipper and that it was not apparent Canadian shippers had suffered any loss.

AGED MOTHER-IN-LAW WINNER OF FOOTRACE

LAKE PLEASANT, N.S., Dec. 6 (C). — The ninety-five-year-old mother-in-law won the decision over her strapping blacksmith son-in-law in a footrace. While relatives assembled for Mrs. Mathilda Durling's ninety-fifth birthday cheered them on, she and six-foot Lambert McNayer fought it out over a 200-yard course. Fresh as a daisy, grandma finished well ahead of the winded Lambert, who pleaded rheumatism as an alibi.

A number of friends paid a surprise visit recently to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Meiklejohn, Giles Road, in honor of their daughters, Frances and Margaret. Those present were Misses Dorothea Walker, Barbara Hoole, Wilma Ambrose, Dolly and Ina Hunter, Sheila McKinnon, and Messrs. Monty Gore-Langton, Patrick Hoole, Kenneth Stanlake, Howard Polson, Albert Hunter, Stanley Oakes, Harrison Grey and Gordon Ballantyne.

GOLF FACTS

NOT THEORIES!

By ALEX MORRISON.

The performances, particularly the style shown by the British players recently at Ridgewood, N.J., indicates that they are copying their own great player, Henry Cotton.

Cotton's outstanding success against the world's best players in the last two British open championships proves the worth of his swing.

Young Cotton came to the United States in 1931. I made some pictures of him in action during the American open at Inverness. He was and still is a keen student of form. His efforts to master the correct swing have made him one of the truly great golfers of the world.

His marvellous records in scoring have greatly encouraged the young British pros. They have followed his lead in striving to learn the correct swing. Within a few years the British might well regain their supremacy over the American pros.

Jane Dixon Says:

A DIVORCED MAN IS ONE OF THE MOST CONVINCING OF ARGUMENTS AGAINST HASTY MARRIAGE

The divorced man is stalking across my desk most persistently these days.

I confess he is a knotty problem, one of the most difficult of all to handle.

He serves one very definite purpose, however.

He is the most convincing of arguments against hasty marriage, or marriage without careful consideration of the suitability to each other of the contracting parties.

Marriage is so easily made, so difficult to dissolve, that only those who are as sure beyond shadow of doubt that they were meant for one another, should undertake it.

PROPER, BUT RATHER STRANGE

Kitty: It seems to me the young man is leaning backward in the matter of propriety. The break-up of his marriage occurred some years ago, so I see no reason why he should not be friendly with your sister. He can do so without making his attention conspicuous. After all, there is nothing for them to hide. Love is never shameful unless we make it so. There is no disgrace in becoming the wife of a divorced man. The State recognizes divorce and has legalized it. Are you sure the young man loves your sister? He sounds sort of strange to me.

Another letter presents a different and even more difficult problem.

It concerns the married man who wants a divorce, but is waiting "for something to turn up."

He asks the girl he says he loves, and who loves him, to wait with him.

Dear Miss Dixon: I am twenty-one years old, in love with a married man fifteen years my senior.

I love him deeply and I know he loves me as much.

His wife knows of our going together, but makes no attempt whatsoever to give him his freedom.

He tells me continually he knows that some day there will be a break for both of us.

Now he has asked me to wait, and I have given him my promise.

I suppose you will tell me I was wrong in making that promise, but I am young, and he is the type of man I'd be proud to call my husband.

If I wait a while for him, don't you think it would be better than marrying someone else, knowing all the time I should have followed my heart?

Both the man and I are anxious to know what you think.—D. C.

IN A DANGEROUS SITUATION

Answer: I think that you should either give one another up entirely, or take definite action toward remedying a dangerous and damaging situation.

There can be no happiness under the present circumstances—not for you, nor the man, nor the wife.

You are branding the love you should cherish and protect with the ugly word, "illicit."

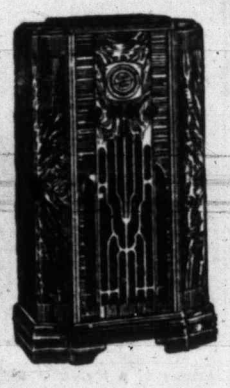

And what, after all, do you expect will "turn up?"

No man worthy the name should ask a young woman to live indefinitely under a cloud of his making, on the chance that some day—maybe—the cloud will turn itself inside out and there will be the silver lining.

You should retrieve your promise and be free to meet eligible men. You should not marry with love for this man still in your heart, but love has been known to change its direction, and waiting for something that may never happen is pretty sorry business for youth.

Ghosts Do Exist

But only in sick, afraid minds

There are ghosts of fear, worry and failure.
They torture the woman in the house,
And the man in his place of business.
The woman becomes tired, irritable, sleepless.
The man loses his grip on business,
Lacks the energy to make a success of the daily task,
Sees only the ghost of failure staring him in the face.
As the nervous system becomes run down,
These ghosts grow bolder and bolder
Until there comes mental and physical break down.
But why not conquer nervous troubles,
Before they become really serious,
By using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.
These ghosts of disease slink away
Before the nerve force and vitality,
Which results from the use of this time-proven restorative.

Human Equality Most Important Consideration

Miss Mary Dingman, Addressing Large Audience Of Women's Canadian Club at Empress Hotel, Eloquently Outlines "Status of Women And Its Implications Today"

VIEWING the subject from the standpoint that human equality and humanity are more important than legal equality as between the sexes, Miss Mary Dingman, addressing the Women's Canadian Club in the Empress Hotel yesterday afternoon on "The Status of Women and Its Implications Today," made an eloquent appeal to the womanhood of Victoria to throw their support behind the international organizations that are trying to stem back the retrogressiye trend in women's position in the world today.

"I am less interested in working for more and better status for women than I am in doing a better job with the status we already have attained," she declared at one point in driving home the importance of social legislation which has already been passed in many countries. Brazil and Turkey, for instance, had within very recent time extended equality of franchise and political and economic position to women, but the benefits had come before the women themselves were ready to take advantage of them.

She pictured, too, the definitely retrogressive tendencies in respect to women's position in "the dictatorship countries," Germany and Italy, and the equally definitely progressive position of women in Russia.

"There is no country where women are given fuller equality to do the work for which they are qualified, than in Russia," she commented.

ISTANBUL CONFERENCE

Introduced by Mrs. S. J. Willis, president of the club, and welcomed by an audience that filled the Empress ballroom, Miss Dingman began her talk by describing the great suffrage conference held last April in Istanbul (Constantinople) under the auspices of the International Alliance for Citizenship. Istanbul was chosen because "at one stroke of the pen" Gazi Mustafa Kemal last year had granted the women of Turkey all the rights and privileges of citizenship, for which the women of other countries had vainly struggled for years. Eastern women dominated this conference.

Intimations of strange contrast between the old and new Turkey were indicated by Miss Dingman's description of the old palace, where the sultans of a former day kept their harems, this year thrown open for such progressive discussions. The Turkish people, especially young men, eager to know what the progressive women of the world were thinking about, had shown great interest in the conference sessions, and attended in large numbers.

DUE TO CRISIS

Retrogression in respect of women's position was found not only in the dictatorship countries. The world economic crisis and the shortage of jobs were responsible for the move by certain governments to push women out of the jobs in order to make way for men. In Canada she had been told by a woman that the unemployment question could be settled if women in jobs would give them up. This view was seventy-five or one hundred years behind the times. Married women had been definitely discriminated against. If there were measures for restriction of employment it should not be on the basis of sex, but on the basis of consideration of the individual cases. There was no doubt that due to the economic crisis, women were being deprived of the higher positions of responsibility.

LOSING GROUND

Women were losing ground; the world over the woman's movement was in a trough of depression, after the very remarkable movement whereby women got opportunity for service and self-expression, they were dropping back into a period of retrogression—with the exception of these "brighter spots" of Brazil, Turkey and Russia.

On the whole, Miss Dingman thought, woman had tried to be too much like men. They had had to be a little aggressive in some countries in order merely to get justice. In this connection she spoke of the still very small proportion of women at Geneva, although all problems were women's problems just as much as men's. Even in the international labor conference, with representatives of fifty countries, there were but twenty women, although here again the problems of industry and labor involved women and children and the welfare of humanity in which women were so vitally involved and interested.

"A woman has to be five times as good as a man to be sent to things like that," affirmed the speaker, who nevertheless criticized her own sex for not being sufficiently willing to do the routine, hard, slogging jobs necessary to establish the background fitting her for work on such international bodies. In this connection she paid special tribute to Kerstin Hesselgren, one of the several splendid Scandinavian women sent to Geneva. Miss Hesselgren was sent by her Government twice yearly to the labor assembly at Geneva. More women of her type were needed.

Y.W.C.A. ATTITUDE

The World's Y.W.C.A. was sending a call to all its national groups to make a fresh study of the contribution of women to the world, especially from the religious standpoint, and with the idea that men and women working together as equals could make a greater contribution to humanity.

Miss Dingman discussed the work done at Geneva this year in connection with the attempt at codification of the law affecting nationality of married women, rehearsing the progress made since the matter was debated at The Hague five years ago, "trying to incorporate the principle of the right of the married woman to choose her own nationality instead of having to take that of her husband.

Miss Dingman scolded women for not pressing through their local groups of international organizations for information regarding what was being done by the international. This was particularly with reference to women's status in industry, a matter thoroughly aired at the session of council of the League last January. One group wanted equality of opportunity for women, believing that it would take away the stigma from women; another group, to which the World Y.W.C.A. subscribed, did not want it.

Legal experts in the international labor organization had expressed the view that equal rights would threaten the special industrial legislation for women, and while equal rights would help the women in the higher professional and business positions, tens of thousands in the lower ranks of labor might be adversely affected. For instance, in the industrial factories of the East, women had no idea of organizing to protect themselves, and the only thing that had saved them against pitiless exploitation had been the special laws for women in industry.

Mrs. H. P. Hodges moved the vote of thanks, and Mme. Griffaton added much to the pleasure of the afternoon by her two charmingly sung numbers, Schubert's "Serenade" and an Italian love song, "Girometta," Mrs. C. C. Warn being her able accompanist.

Challenge to Youth Is Given by Miss Dingman

Young Women of City Hear Inspiring Address at City Temple by Representative of World Y.W.C.A.—Gives Sound Advice

A message, a challenge and an inspiration were given to the large gathering of representative young women of the city by Miss Mary Dingman when she addressed them last evening at the City Temple, speaking under the auspices of the Young Women's Christian Association of Victoria.

Miss Dingman gave a resume of the youth movements of such countries as Italy, Bulgaria, Esthonia, Latvia, Russia and others, and while pointing out the finer qualities which characterize the movement in these countries, she also hinted at the dangers of regimented thinking. In spite of all the superficial improvements which have been brought about in Italy, they had not been wrought without price, and that price, she said, was the picture of thousands of the youth of the country going out on an enterprise which had brought Italy the condemnation of the rest of the world.

CATCH THE VISION

She urged her listeners to "catch the vision" of the highest ideals, to work and think and study, to put into individual work the best in their power, and link themselves voluntarily to the highest ideal, to dedicate themselves, body, mind and soul to their country, but not to let that dedication stop at country boundaries, rather to let it spread throughout the world.

BREAKING BOUNDARIES

The question of internationalism was dealt with by the speaker. In order to really become internationally minded, there were barriers to be broken down, age-long antipathies to be dispelled. She warned her listeners against the class distinctions which were an obstacle in the way of true Christian spirit. She referred to the disparaging attitude of many people towards household work, which, in her opinion, was one of the noblest of occupations and one requiring far more intelligence on the part of the worker than that necessary in "hitting a typewriter." The question of more money and shorter hours was unimportant compared with "how you do your job," she said. Pride and self-gratification were inherent in human beings, she declared, and "men like Hitler and Mussolini are the monstrous exaggerations of what we all are."

The thanks and appreciation of the audience were expressed by Miss Winnie Elliott, president of the business girls' group of the Y.W.C.A. Mrs. Richard Felton presided and Miss Ruth Humphrey introduced the speaker of the evening.

The tea tables were lovely with vases of yellow chrysanthemums and the main table was arranged with yellow chrysanthemums in a silver basket and tall, red, lighted tapers. Mrs. W. Jones was the general convener.

VICTORIA WEST

The Victoria West United Y.P.S. enjoyed an interesting meeting on Tuesday evening. The minutes were read and adopted, followed by the Scripture lesson, read by Cecil Milley. The devotional period closed with a hymn. The guest speaker was Rev. E. W. Horton, of First United Church, who gave an interesting talk on "Let Christmas Speak," explaining the different customs of each country in relation to Christmas and the meaning of Christmas. Mr. Milley thanked Mr. Horton for his talk, which was greatly enjoyed. Plans are in progress for a Christmas party on December 17. Next

He espied his neighbor coming along the road with his fishing tackle on his back.

"Catch anything, old boy?" he eagerly asked.

"Yes, two."

"Good! What were they?"

"The seven-thirty there, and the five-fifteen back," came the unhappy angler's reply.

THE WORLD looks pretty rosy to this little lady.

She gets Castoria for a laxative. And she loves it! It is one laxative she takes willingly!

And that's very important! For if a youngster hates the taste of a laxative and struggles against taking it, her nerves are upset by the struggle. And her stomach, rebelling against the flavor, may be upset also!

So pleasant taste is one of the important reasons why Castoria is the right laxative for children . . .

Here's another:

Like the carefully chosen food you give your child—Castoria is designed just for a child's delicate system. It contains no strong, purging drugs such as some adult laxatives contain.

It is safe for delicately-balanced young systems. It will never, never cause griping pain. It clears away waste matter thoroughly but very gently. And it is not habit-forming.

Whenever your youngster needs a laxative—from babyhood to 11 years old—turn to Castoria. Look for the name Castoria. And save money—buy the family-size bottle.

WHAT'S DOING ON THE LOCAL RETAIL PRODUCE MARKET

A thirty-ton shipment of lettuce, green peas, beans and artichokes from California arrived here yesterday. No increase in prices in these commodities was reported. A car of dry-belt potatoes was also received.

Grade "A" large eggs were up 1 cent per dozen to 39 cents. With the present supply of Japanese oranges nearly cleaned out, wholesalers were preparing to receive another shipment shortly. The price will remain steady at 75 cents per box.

The regular shipment of oranges, lemons and grapefruit will arrive early next week. It was pointed out that navel oranges hold the present market at from 20 to 40 cents per dozen. A shipment of bananas will arrive next week.

Wholesalers report they are well stocked for Christmas. Large supplies of potatoes, raisins, dates, figs, nuts, bananas, and ginger are ready for local demand. A large shipment of cranberries from the East arrived yesterday. The price was given at from 29 to 33 cents per pound.

B.C. EXECUTIVE HOLDS SITTING

Some Appointments and One Salary Increase Included In Week's Orders

British Columbia's resident Cabinet held its second meeting of the week yesterday, under Acting Premier A. Wells Gray. Mr. Gray announced that only routine business was transacted. Orders from the previous meeting, held on Wednesday, received final sanction during the day, and concerned minor appointments, one salary increase, and routine reports.

George Wainwright, of Cawston, has been appointed a stipendiary magistrate for the County of Yale.

Dr. A. Leigh Hunt, of Woodfibre, is to replace Dr. C. G. G. Maclean as medical health officer and school health inspector for Woodfibre and district.

ONE SALARY INCREASE

A temporary stenographer in the Government agency at Lillooet had that position confirmed, with a small increase in salary. A temporary stenographer was appointed to the Government agency at Alberni, as from November 18.

A foreshore lot at Maple Bay, Vancouver Island, was set aside for the use of the Dominion Government as a wharf site.

Three members of the Department of Lands' staff were freshly embraced within the scope of the Civil Service Superannuation Act.

All orders were signed by three members of the Government, Hon. A. W. Gray, Hon. F. M. MacPherson and Hon. K. C. MacDonald, forming a minimum quorum of the Provincial Executive.

Universal Week Of Prayer Plans Are Being Made

Ministers of the city have been requested to make this known to their congregations and to send delegates.

These meetings, organized by the World Evangelical Alliance, have been held since 1846.

LIGHT OPERA TO CONCLUDE TODAY

"Chocolate Soldier" Performance at Royal Victoria Theatre This Evening

With two successful performances already in the past, there only remains one more presentation of that lovely light opera, "The Chocolate Soldier." It will be given this evening at the Royal Victoria Theatre by the Victoria Civic Opera Society. Those who witnessed the opera on Thursday, the opening night, and again yesterday evening, left the theatre well satisfied with all they saw and heard.

The scenery is particularly worthy of note. The opera is in three acts and the scene shows a site near the famous Dragoman Pass in Bulgaria. The year is 1885 and Bulgaria and Servia are at war. That fact makes an exciting plot.

'BARBARY COAST' NOW AT CAPITOL

Famous New Picture Stars Miriam Hopkins—Story Evolves Around Historic Events

Samuel Goldwyn's long-awaited "Barbary Coast" comes to the Capitol Theatre today, with Miriam Hopkins, Edward G. Robinson and Joel McCrea in its leading roles.

Around the building of America's last frontier after the California gold rush of 1849, Charles MacArthur and Ben Hecht have written a romantic and glamorous story of a love that flowered and flamed amid the tumult and treachery of a gold-mad city of love-hungry adventurers from every corner of the globe.

Miriam Hopkins is said to be more fascinating, more beautiful and more effective than ever before as Swan, who reigns over the crooked roulette wheel in the notorious Bella Donna cafe, run by Louis Chamalis, a man as ruthless as he is powerful. Robinson has his finest characterization as this "public enemy No. 1" of the Barbary Coast, and Joel McCrea is splendid as Jim Carmichael, a fine, idealistic young miner, who enters Swan's life and transforms her by his love.

The skillful directorial hand of Howard Hawks and the brilliant pens of Charles MacArthur and Ben Hecht are evident throughout the film, which is released through United Artists. "Barbary Coast" is robust, hearty, thrilling entertainment. See it by all means.

MATINEE TO AID SAANICH DRIVE

Welfare Association to Benefit From Performance at Playhouse This Morning

To aid the Saanich Welfare Association in its Christmas hamper campaign, the Playhouse Theatre will this morning offer three pictures as attractions at a special "food matinee." Admission to the theatre will be by food only, the entire proceeds being turned over to the association.

Promptly at 10 o'clock, the Will Rogers' picture, "Steamboat Round the Bend," and Mickey Mouse and Popeye the Sailor cartoons will be shown.

The services of the theatre, the services of the operators and attendants have all been donated to the association as a contribution to the hamper campaign.

The association has set 500 hampers as its goal this Christmas, and large quantities of foodstuffs are required. Last year over 400 hampers were distributed to Saanich needy.

CHAPTER XXIV

"How do you like the job?" Miss Sanford asked Carol when she had been with Dr. Harding a month.

"I'm crazy about it," Carol answered, "but I'm afraid it will soon be over. The doctor heard from Miss Jones today; she'll soon be coming back."

"This isn't the only doctor's office in the world. You'll get another soon. I'm sure Dr. Harding will recommend you highly. He tells me that you are the 'soothingest' office nurse he's ever had. You must have taken my advice about handling the patients like children."

"That's not hard to do. I like them. And the doctor is giving me more and more to do. I wish I could help him with his therapeutic treatments."

"Why don't you take a course? There's a dandy just beginning at the Physicians' Hospital next week and it costs very little."

So Carol had something to do with her evenings. Three nights a week she spent learning therapeutics at the Physicians' Hospital. And she found other ways to fill the other evenings.

Wayne Somers, the boy she had met at Mary's house party, was back in town and her frank adorer. He took her to her first football game. On Saturday afternoons they traveled up to New Haven, down to Princeton, up to the Columbia stadium. Carol knew very little about the game but she knew when to scream herself hoarse for the team Wayne cheered. She loved the excitement, the noise, the flowers Wayne sent her to pin on the shoulder of her tweed coat, the feather she stuck in her hat, the hot dogs they ate between the halves of the game. She loved the shouting, the merry wise-cracking, the crowded train back to New York. She loved the dancing at fraternity houses afterwards. She adored every minute of these week-end thrills, the things she had heard about when she was in college and never experienced.

She looked sixteen when the bright color came into her cheeks and excitement lent a sparkle to her cheeks. Small wonder that she was finding life exciting at her first real taste of what she called "kid fun."

In Wayne himself she was not interested. She found no depth in him but he was a good enough companion with whom to laugh and play.

Gary pretended to be very jealous of him and wisely did not intrude his company when he knew that Carol was seeing him.

Carol gave a party after the Columbia-Lehigh game. There were about twenty who came for cocktails and supper. Gary, Isobel and her new husband, Mary and some of the people Carol had met at her house, gathered there for Carol's first party.

Carol had little attention for the game. She wondered if there would be enough lobster salad, if the chicken cooked in cherry in the chafing dish was a truely good dish for such a party. There was countless other delicacies. There was the little colored boy, dug up by the Beulah, to play an accordian, which, of course was promptly taken away from him by one or another of Carol's guests. They turned the room upside down, broke the glasses, covered the place with ashes, rolled up the rug for an exhibition dance. Then, sitting before the blazing hearth, they sang at the top of their lungs until the songs must surely have been heard across the river. And trooping out happily and noisily at an early hour in the morning, left Carol to her apartment, looking as though it had been struck by a hurricane, which didn't bother that happy girl at all.

There, at least she had given a party that was a success. Everyone had had a good time. It was young and it was merry and Carol had enjoyed herself. But not as much as one other night in that same place, a tiny voice within her kept insisting. Carol sang loudly to still that voice.

There is nothing quite so lonely as the Sunday that follows a gay Saturday night. Beulah made short work of tidying the rooms once more, of putting fresh candles into the candlesticks, laying a fresh fire and eradicating all signs of the night before. Carol could find nothing to do.

"Want to have supper with me and go to the Grahams for some bridge?" Gary had invited.

Carol didn't. She had Monday ahead of her and she knew the party would be late on Sunday, but when five o'clock came she wished she had accepted. It was too early to dine and too late to see an afternoon movie. She pulled on her hat, threw a sports coat over her knitted dress and took herself out for a walk.

Then she had an idea. Monday was a heavy day at the office and she would have no time to catch up on the case histories she was copying. She would go to the office and work for an hour or two.

It was quiet, restful there. She took off her coat and sat down before the typewriter. For an hour she worked. She was nearly done.

There, the W's were done. There were few names under V.

Van Cleve. She looked at the card, wondering who Miss Miranda Van Cleve was. Somewhere she had heard the name. It was associated with something . . . somewhere

"I'm Sure Dr. Harding Will Recommend You Highly."

. . . she tried to remember it but it escaped her memory. There was nothing on the card but the name and address. That was strange. Perhaps the doctor had forgotten to give his nurse the history. She put the card aside. She would ask Dr. Harding about it on the morrow.

There were few names to finish. She stacked the cards neatly and filed them away, pulled the top over the typewriter. She powdered her nose and pulled on her hat. The light was on in the waiting room. She reached for the switch on her desk lamp and pulled it off. Then there was a rattle at the outer door!

Carol was frightened. The doctor had gone away for the week-end and there was no one else who had a right to turn that handle. She glanced nervously at the office safe as she felt her hands getting ice cold. Her glance was fixed on the door which was opening slowly, and then she let her breath out and sank into her office chair.

"Dr. Craig, how you frightened me!"

"Sorry," he said. "I thought it was unusual to find this office lighted up and stopped by to see if there was anything wrong. I say . . . there is something wrong . . ." He had loked at her pale face.

"There must be some spirits of ammonia around here some place," he was looking in the cabinet.

"No, really, I'm all right, but you startled me. Don't bother, please." The color came back to her face.

"You look tired," he said solicitously and quite—oh, quite—different was his tone from the cold formal one with which he had greeted her that last morning.

"I'm not a bit," she said, not mentioning the lateness of her party the night before.

"Is Dr. Harding working you too hard? You've no business working at this hour!" Craig was greatly disturbed.

"He doesn't even know that I'm here. I happened to have nothing to do and this seemed like a good time to get caught up with something that I wanted to do when it was quiet around here. Dr. Craig, I love this job. I've never thanked you before because I didn't want to intrude on you, but I do thank you now."

"Please don't. I'm sorry you aren't going to stay in the work."

"But I want to. I've been studying therapy and I hope to get another job when Miss Jones comes back."

Craig looked at her with a puzzled expression.

"Does that surprise you?" she asked.

"Rather. I heard . . . I thought you were going to be married."

It was Carol's turn to be surprised.

"What nonsense," she said. "Whom am I supposed to be going to marry?"

"I'm glad to hear it," he said solemnly. "I understood that you had recently become engaged to Mr. Crandall."

The importance of that statement didn't strike Carol, she only knew that she was happy . . . happy that he had said he was glad to hear that she was not engaged.

That Body of Yours

(By James W. Barton, M.D.)

THE BODY IS DIFFERENT TO A MACHINE

In the past the living body has often been compared to a machine; usually to a steam engine. They are of course, somewhat alike in that both burn fuel and give off energy in the form of heat and motion. However, the fuel supplied a boiler never becomes a part of the boiler; in man the foods are absorbed into the blood, give energy, and also form a part of the body itself. This using up of the cells of the body and building them up again is called metabolism.

In the light of new discoveries in physiology and the action of foods in the body—chemistry—the body is not often compared to a machine now.

"Instead of being like a machine, the human body is fundamentally different. It is regulated from within, and its structure is injured if the things put into it (the diet) are too little or too much."

For instance, an adult man or woman, living an indoor life at the desk is going to need just about one half the quantity of food as one working hard outdoors.

Further, the indoor man is going to need about one part meat, fish or eggs, to two parts fats—butter, cream, fat meats, to four parts cereals, vegetables and fruits. This will give him the needed all-round nourishment and should get rid of the wastes, thus preventing constipation.

On the other hand the man working outdoors will require twice as much meat, fish or eggs because foods are more than simply fuels. Starch food—potatoes, bread, sugar—are excellent foods to give heat and energy which is about all the indoor man needs. The outdoor man by using up his body cells in work must have the body building foods and it is the animal protied foods, meats, fish and eggs, with the proteid vegetables, peas, beans, and cereals, that best build up worn or used cells.

In other words, all the various foodstuffs while of good general service have each their special uses in the body, and the structure and size of the body and the amount of work it has to do, the rapid or slow action of some of its glands all have a bearing on the kinds and amounts of food that should be eaten.

The body is not then like a machine; it is very different.

Mrs. Black—"I hear your daughter won £20,000 in a sweepstake. That'll keep the wolf from the door for a long time."

Mrs. White—"It may keep the wolf from the door, but I've noticed a lot of young cubs hanging round."

What Today Means

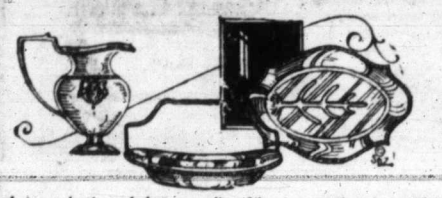

"SAGITTARIUS"

If December 7 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11:15 a.m. to 1:15 p.m., from 3:15 to 5:15 p.m. and from 8:15 to 10:15 p.m. The danger periods are from 9:15 to 11:15 a.m., from 6:15 to 8:15 p.m. and from 10:15 p.m. until midnight.

Good sportsmanship is a very essential quality for you to possess this day. Be willing to give as readily as to receive. Because someone you know shows a lack of ordinary courtesy, this will not justify your showing resentment. You probably possess some very high principals. Stand steadfastly by them. Temptation is a test of character. On this day yours may be tried, and you alone will know whether you are possessed of sufficient strength to resist allurement

REV. J. S. PATTERSON

PASTOR of Knox Presbyterian Church here, and Moderator of the British Columbia Synod, has accepted a call to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in North Vancouver. He will commence his duties there on January 1.

NEXT YEAR TO BE EVALUATED

Dr. Davies Will Bring Under Review Stocks, Hospitals And Ethiopia

Important questions on which will be reflected the word of Scripture and prophecy will be faced by Dr. Clem Davies on Sunday tvening at the Empire Theatre. The queries include:

"Do we need new blood on the City Council, and is not a shake-up due here as well as in Vancouver?"

"What will be the effect of Canada's repudiation of its own representative at the League of Nations?"

"With overflowing hospitals here and in Vancouver, where 480 operations are being held up in one hospital alone, and in view of the representations of Victoria doctors regarding indigent cases, do you not think that Dr. Weir's health insurance proposals should be studied seriously?"

"December 5, a significant Pyramid date, has come and gone; what, of anything, has happened?"

"Hailie Salassie says that according to divine injunction, 'Ethiopia is lifting her hands to God' with three great powers now planning to hand Ethiopia over to Italy to avert a world conflict. How can God answer Salassie's prayer?"

"What is the reason for increasingly heavy bank deposits in Canada and the U.S.A., and a 'bull' market on the stock exchange, while at the same time food prices are steadily rising and City Councils are desperately but almost hopelessly trying to avert still higher taxation?"

"Is the present 'bull market' going to last, or are we again headed for the 'cleaners,' with another stock crash sometime early in the coming year?"

At the morning service Dr. Davies will discuss "History's Most Significant Year, 1936, a Month Away." What is next year's significance in history, prophecy and Pyramid reading? Are false prophets preaching a return of prosperity on old lines, and ignoring the rumblings of an approaching world upheaval which will shake economic, international and political institutions to their foundations, and what does the Bible have to say, if anything, on these matters?

God as Cause And Creator To Be Topic

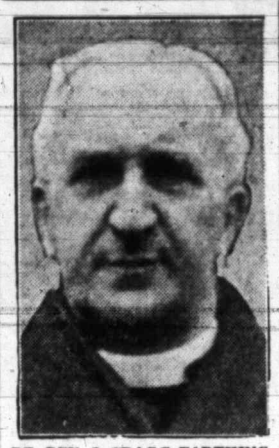

"God, the Only Cause and Creator," will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday.

The golden text is: "The Lord reigneth, He is clothed with majesty; the Lord is clothed with strength, wherewith He hath girded Himself; the world also is stablished, that it cannot be moved." (Psalms cxiii: 1).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth" (Genesis i: 1).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, "Divine Mind is the only cause or Principle of existence."

SAILOR HAD CLOSE CALL

Member of Nordbo's Crew Washed Overboard and Back Again

VANCOUVER, Dec. 6.—Flung from the maw of the raging Caribbean Sea, something like a modern Jonah from the interior of a whale, Hans Peter Olsen, twenty-one, a seaman on Norwegian Ms. Nordbo, is in hospital at Cristobal, thanking his Scandinavian sea gods that he has only a broken leg.

Ms. Nordbo felt her way carefully through the fog and into harbor here on Wednesday night, and her officers reported on the adventures of Olsen.

The ship was battling through a terrific gale five days out of Colon, Panama Canal, when a mighty sea swept down, snatched Olsen from the bridge and carried him to sea.

Horrified officers and shipmates bid instant and regretful farewell to another victim of the waves. But the Caribbean Sea was in a playful mood. Tossing the great ship like a chip, it played with Olsen like a piece of foam. One wave snatched him, another picked him up and hurled him back on board, breaking his leg. There he lay helpless on the deck.

RISKED LIVES

Shipmates risked their own lives to dash on to the open, storm-swept deck to carry him to shelter. The captain gave first aid, and upon arrival at the Panama Canal sent the injured man to the hospital. It is expected he will be recovered sufficiently to rejoin the ship on her return voyage.

Asked in hospital if he was frightened when the seas made a plaything of him, Olsen replied "Ja."

Ms. Nordbo is in to Anglo-Canadian Shipping Company, Limited, to load for Liverpool. She is commanded by Captain V. Lockenvitz. His wife, who accompanies him, did much to aid the injured seaman while he lay in hospital on board.

TOWBOAT IN DISTRESS

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 (A).—The forty-five-ton boat Mary J. Landry was reported in distress off Cape Hatteras today in a message relayed by the German steamer Adria to Mackay Radio.

The Landry usualy carried a crew of twelve. It is registered out of Philadelphia.

WHEAT VALUES TREND UPWARD

Australia Makes Extensive Sales to United Kingdom And Japan

MELBOURNE, Dec. 6.—Exports of wheat and flour from Australia between December 1, 1934, to the week ending October 16, 1935, totaled 91,057,561 bushels, as compared with 81,725,865 bushels for the corresponding period the year before.

The upward trend in the values of Australian wheat has continued and further extensive sales have been made to the United Kingdom and Japan at considerably improved values.

The new crop prospects are not improving and conditions, except in Victoria, have tended to lessen the anticipated yield of less than 129,000,000 bushels. Requirements for home consumption may be placed at about 55,000,000 bushels, which leaves an exportable surplus of 74,000,000 bushels.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

FAITH IN A PARTNER

Perfect bridge partnerships, like perfect marriages, are rare and beautiful things. Both must be based on deep understanding and staunch confidence. Let either partner have the slightest doubt of the other's judgment or veracity, and disaster is just around the corner.

Confining my observations to bridge matters (I am no marital expert!), I am able to say authoritatively that disaster at the bridge table more often is due to partnership misunderstanding than to all other causes put together. Penalties that go into fancy figures rarely are the result of a misplay, or even a series of misplays, nor are they usually the fruit of only one partner's folly. Almost always, both partners have "collaborated" by falling over each other's feet.

On the reverse of the medal is a prettier picture. Today's hand is an example of the type of faith in a trustworthy partner that must inevitably be rewarded.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	4 ♣	4 ♥
Pass	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
Pass	Dbl.	Pass	Pass
Pass

South's four club bid, not vulnerable against vulnerable opponents, was a conventional pre-emptive bid. West's excellent suit, however, made a four heart bid comparatively safe. After North and East passed, South did not, as most players would, make a blind sacrifice at five clubs. He reasoned that his first bid must convey the knowledge to North that he (South) could not hold a spade and club two-suiter, or even a fairly strong spade suit, else the four club shut-out would be easy. So he could now bid four spades, on the assurance that North would go to five clubs unless he held both length and strength in spades.

No great courage was required in the making of the bid, but when East doubled, and South stood firm on his miserable spade holding, trusting implicitly in North to make the final decision, he deserved a medal for bravery.

The play offered little difficulty. West opened the ace of hearts and continued with the queen, South ruffing the latter. The queen of spades was taken by East's ace and a diamond returned. Another spade lost to East's king, and the second diamond lead was ruffed by South with his last trump. A club to the dummy's king, and then a trump to draw East's seven completed the victory.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Question: West, vulnerable, bid one spade. My partner, not vulnerable, doubled and East passed. My hand was ♠ J 9 6 3 2, ♥ 8 3, ♦ 6 4 2, ♣ 8 5 2. What should I do?

Answer: You should bid two clubs, your lowest ranking three-card suit. If you were to pass, the opponents might easily roll up a tremendous score above the line in overtricks, since your hand, despite its five trumps, might not take a single trick.

PURCHASING BOX SHOOKS

Australians Buying Large Quantities for Making of Fruit Containers

There is a big demand for box shooks in Australia at the present time. The largest shipment to leave British Columbia in some years was loaded aboard the freighter Sheafholme at New Westminster during the week. The Sheafholme left the river port on Thursday for Australia and Tasmania.

The box shook shipment going aboard the Sheafholme consisted of 2,600 tons. This is not an all-time high record for any single shipment, for some years ago a freighter took out 2,800 tons. The bulk of the shooks going to Australia at present are for apple box shooks and citrus fruit boxes.

In addition to the box shooks, the Sheafholme took 1,500,000 feet of lumber and a parcel of canned salmon.

Also loading for "down under" at New Westminster is the Swedish Trans-Atlantic Line Ss. Nordic. She will take 1,000 tons of box shooks, in addition to 1,000 tons of canned salmon and shipments of lumber and logs. The Nordic will sail for Brisbane, Sydney, Newcastle, Melbourne and Adelaide next Thursday.

ADJOURNED FOR DEFENCE WITNESS

Will Resume Trial of George Hannay in Nanaimo Assize Court on Monday

NANAIMO, Dec. 6. — Nanaimo Assize Court adjourned at 1:30 today until Monday morning. Adjournment was made necessary by the absence of Eric Parkinson, who had been called by George Hannay as a witness. Hannay is being tried on a charge of having stolen goods in his possession. The goods were found last year by police when they searched Hannay's home. They consisted of several tins of oil and grease and a bunch of six keys which fit the padlocks to the main entrance of the local branch of the Union Oil Co.

In this morning's session, Richard Parkinson, fourteen years old, told the court that some time before Hannay's arrest on the present charge he had found the keys in question, and, after showing them to his father, Eric Parkinson, had taken them to George Hannay, as he thought the later might find the owner. Hannay asked that Parkinson be produced to corroborate his son's evidence. Police had visited Parkinson's home on Wednesday last to summon him as a witness. He was absent but the subpoena had been left at the house. Later it was found that he was in Vancouver. Vancouver police were this morning communicated with while court adjourned, but it was learned Parkinson could not be located in time for the afternoon session, although it had been ordered that, if found, he be brought in an airplane to save time. Besides the present case, Hannay is charged jointly with W. H. Jones of breaking into Constantine's store at Parksville and with theft of goods therefrom. This case will come up next week.

One of the elephants at the zoo was coughing badly one morning, so the keeper was instructed to give it a bucket of water, into which a bottle of whisky had been emptied.

"How's Sally?" he asked his fellow-keeper next morning.

"Oh, just the same," was the reply, "but all the other elephants are coughing this morning."

Docked Safely at New York

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 (AP).—Convoyed by United States Coast Guard cutters, the North German Lloyd liner Bremen docked safely today, following an anonymous report to officials that the luxurious ship might be bombed. Throughout the night, as the Bremen lay at quarantine, the coast guard vessels maintained a protective convoy. New York City detectives also guarded the ship. The New York Times said: "An alleged Communist plot to damage the liner led to the unusual precautions."

IS CALLING AT SAN FRANCISCO

Blue Star Line Ship Visiting California Port on Winter Cruise

The Blue Star Line's palatial cruise liner Arandora Star will call at San Francisco on her Winter cruise to the West Indies, Honolulu, California and Central America, according to American Mail Line, local agents for the Blue Star Line.

On the return to England, the Arandora Star will sail from San Francisco, March 5, via Los Angeles, Mazatlan, Acapulco, Manzanillo, San Jose, La Libertad, Balboa, Cristobal, Curacao and Teneriffe en route to Southampton, where she will arrive April 6.

The Arandora Star is one of the most palatial of cruise liners and is used almost exclusively in that line operating out of Southampton. The ship has exceptionally comfortable accommodation for 400 passengers. All staterooms are outside with the exception of a dozen, and all have twin beds and every modern convenience. The ship is 512 feet long and is 15,000 gross tons. There is more deck space per passenger than any other cruising liner and open-air tiled swimming pool and Lido deck are features while crusing through the tropics.

On a similar cruise last year the luxury liner was practically sold out and only able to accommodate about a dozen passengers from the Pacific Coast back to England.

TRIPLE CHECK OVER WEATHER

Advanced Scientific Systems Are Employed by United Air Lines

With the objective of checkmating delays of air line schedules caused by weather, forces of the United States Weather Bureau, Department of Commerce and air line meteorologists have established advanced scientific systems of weather reporting and analysis.

According to Theodore Larsen, United Air Line's meteorologist, the method of weather analysis, based on reports furnished by airway observers of the Weather Bureau, combined with radio reports from pilots in flight, provides a triple check of the weather and gives accurate advance knowledge of climatic conditions.

Before each pilot takes off on a scheduled flight, he collaborates with the airport dispatcher in analyzing weather over the division he is to fly. During his flight he reports weather conditions as he encounters them. He also prepares a complete log at the end of the trip.

VANCOUVER SHIPPING

VANCOUVER, Dec. 6 (P.).—The Nippon Yusen Kaishai liner Ms. Heian Maru is due Monday. Her sister ship, Ms. Hiye Maru, sailed yesterday for the Orient with passengers, mails and a full cargo after having been delayed twenty-four hours by fog.

The Reardon Smith Ss. Victoria City is bound to this Coast from Leningrad with a cargo of gold ore for the Tacoma smelter. After discharging this cargo, she will shift to Vancouver to load for the United Kingdom.

The Canadian Shipping Co., Ltd., agent for Matsui, reported the company freighter Getsuyo Maru arrived yesterday and berthed at Pier "A," where she discharged 76,000 bundles of Japanese oranges and a carload of silk. She has shifted to Puget Sound.

POSTPONED BUT NOT ABANDONED

Ferryboat Operators Will Carry Out Threat Under Stated Conditions

SEATTLE, Dec. 6 (AP).—A flag of truce waved uncertainly between Puget Sound ferryboat operators and their striking employees today, while attorneys for the opposing groups strove for a peaceful settlement.

The operators postponed carrying out their threat to operate the ferries with non-union crews if the men did not return to work, although Captain F. E. Lovejoy, president of the Washington Shipowners' Association, said the plan had not been abandoned.

"We'll start operations with or without our union crews if they fail," Lovejoy said.

WATERSPOUT FROM PLANE

Passengers of Air Liner Crossing English Channel Witnessed Unique Sight

Passengers in an Imperial Airways liner operating on the London-Paris service had the unusual experience recently of seeing a waterspout. The air liner was commanded by Captain O. P. Jones who reported the waterspout by wireless to Croydon airport. It was 2,000 feet high and was given as five miles southwest of Beachy Head.

It has happened more than once during the past three years that air liners have been able to operate the regular cross-Channel services when ships have been unable to leave port owing to high winds and mountainous seas, and it seems probable that in the future the airplane will prove to be superior to the ship in several other directions when bad weather is encountered. Waterspouts, for instance, have frequently been regarded as the cause of shipwrecks; but the airplane is able easily to avoid them, and the passengers in the air liner were interested but not in the least alarmed.

The airplane's ability to avoid certain kinds of bad weather is not only an advantage from the safety point of view, but also from the passenger comfort point of view. Bad sailors find considerable pleasure, when flying over the Channel in stormy weather, in observing from a height at which the air is smooth, the tossing of the ships on the waves below; and this pleasure is likely to be tasted frequently in the future because of the improving methods of flying through clouds and fog and so of enabling the air liners to find and remain in layers of smooth air for almost the entire journey.

West Saanich Cage Squad Gains 29-24 Win Over Dominoes

Suburban Quintette Springs Big Surprise by Defeating Canadian Champions in Exhibition Tussle—Chinese Students and Pantorium Chalk Up Victories—Red Stacks Lose

Thinking they had a "cinch" set-up, Victoria Dominoes, Canadian basketball champions, took it on the chin last night at the Victoria High School gymnasium when they bowed to a hard fighting West Saanich Mercantile quintette in the second half of a twin bill, 29-24. Previously, the Dominoes, faced by a squad of youngsters flying the colors of the Island Tug Red Stacks, ran away to a 40-9 decision with ease. Then the suburban lads raced on the court and pulled the unexpected, much to the surprise of everyone, especially the Dominion titleholders.

Going into a comfortable lead in the first half, and then holding their own in the final session, Pantorium women came through with a 37-27 victory in the opening game. The cleaners led at the half, 21-9, but were hard pressed in the last period. In the opener, Chinese Students won from Kingham-Gillespie, 32-19.

MERCANTILES WIN

Determination was in the West Saanich camp when they stepped on the floor against the Dominoes. The champs were leading at the interval by a single point, 15-14. Butler put the Mercantiles in front two minutes after the second half started and from then on the visitors never lost the lead. West Saanich continuously got possession of the ball and the Dominoes, trying every way to win, were stopped in their tracks by a determined band of cagers.

Karl Young was the scoring star for the winners with fourteen points, but every member of West Saanich turned in a winning game and deserve credit for their win. The Dominoes attempted several rallies but were held at bay.

SCHMELING IS OFFERED BOUT WITH BOMBER

German Given Chance to Meet Louis—To See Fight With Uzcudun

By EDDIE BRIETZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Heavyweight champions, past and present, took over the big town today and momentarily stole the spotlight from the impending scuffle between Joe Louis and concrete-jawed Paulino Uzcudun.

Max Schmeling

While Max Schmeling steamed up the bay and yearned for a chance to regain the title he lost to Jack Sharkey in 1932, Champion Jim Braddock arrived from the West and promised to accommodate the German. With his trainer, Max Machon, Schmeling is here primarily to see the Louis-Uzcudun fight, December 13, and sign a new contract with Joe Jacobs, his manager. He will return to Germany December 15.

Braddock and his pilot, Joe Gould, who cut short an exhibition tour of the Far West a few days ago, will be around until after the holidays.

Schmeling talked business with Mike Jacobs, head of the 20th Century Club. He expects to see the Garden authorities within a few days. Jacobs offered Max a bout with Louis next June with the lure of a $1,000,000 gate. The German said he would rather meet Braddock, but if it couldn't be arranged he would tangle with the Detroit negro. He felt confident he could beat both Braddock and Louis, adding that he wanted the title more than the money.

Action During Rangers-Hawks Game

The blue-shirted New York Rangers kept second place in the N.H.L.'s American section by defeating the speedy Chicago Black Hawks in Gotham. Here is an action shot from the game with the big, bald Ching Johnson, Ranger defence star, carrying the puck out from his own defence area. Goalie Dave Kerr watches the play carefully as Hawk attackers swoop in to take a hand in the action. Rangers won, 2-1.

NEW CHAMPIONS IN DOUBLE VICTORIES ON WILLOWS COURTS

Young Brentwood Star Defeats Doreen Swayne in Women's Singles, 11-3, 11-1—Lane Trims Simmons, 15-5, 15-4—Both Figure in Doubles—Mrs. MacDonald Officiates

Featured by the double victories of sixteen-year-old Joyce Thomson, comely Brentwood shuttler, and twenty-one-year-old George Lane, Victoria Club titleholder, city badminton champions for the 1935-36 season were crowned yesterday evening at the Willows Club courts, Main Building, Willows Exhibition Grounds.

Miss Thomson annexed the women's singles title by reason of her easy straight-set victory over Miss Doreen Swayne, Victoria Garrison Club, 11-3, 11-1, and later in the evening, with Drennan Hincks, Brentwood netter, as her partner, captured the mixed doubles championship with another two-set victory over Miss Ethel Saunders and George Lane, Victoria Club pair, 15-8, 15-9.

Lane opened his evening's play with an impressive straight-set victory over Ted Simmons, Willows Club, in the men's singles, 15-5, 15-4, and won his second title when, with Frank Tyrrell as his teammate, he lifted the men's doubles crown after a three-set battle with Reg Corfield and Ted Simmons, Willows doubles team. The scores were 7-15, 15-8, 15-8.

WIN DOUBLES TITLE

Florence Oates and Doreen Swayne, recently crowned Victoria Garrison Club women's doubles champions, captured the city honors by defeating Gladys McCall and Dorothy Morley, Willows Club, in an extra set. The newly-crowned champions won the first and last sets, and the Willows team took the middle session. The scores were 15-12, 3-15, 15-5.

Hugh Ford, promising young junior player, annexed the boys' singles championship after a good battle with Maurice Beedham, a clubmate from the Willows Club. The matches were close all of the day, but Ford just had enough to eke out a narrow win. The scores were 15-11, 15-12.

Jean Waddell, Victoria College, lifted the girls' singles championship with an easy victory over R. Watson, Willows Club player, 11-1, 11-3. The champion had the upper hand all of the way and her assortment of shots was too much for her opponent.

EXTENDS THANKS

Before introducing his wife, who presented the prizes in the unavoidable absence of Mayor David Leeming, Major J. C. MacDonald, popular president of the Willows Club, under whose auspices the tournament was held, expressed the thanks of the club to all who assisted in making the tournament a success. He paid particular attention to the work of the tournament committee under the chairmanship of H. B. Witter, and he congratulated F. A. Jackson, energetic secretary, for the capable way he had carried out his duties.

Playing like a champion from the start, Joyce Thomson made quick work of her women's single final with Doreen Swayne. The brilliant young Brentwood girl, the youngest player ever to win the city championship, uncorked enough shots to easily defeat the hard-driving Garrison star, and won by scores of 11-3, 11-1.

SMASHES EFFECTIVE

Scoring many telling points with hard and well-placed smashes, George Lane, brilliant Victoria Club netter, annexed the men's singles crown in easy fashion. The new champion played smart badminton from the start and had little difficulty in returning practically everything that Simmons sent at him. On the other hand, Simmons found Lane's shots hard to pick up and was forced to make many errors into the net. After taking the first set 15-5, Lane finished the match with a passing shot as Simmons came to the net in the final game, and won by the one-sided score of 15-4.

Miss "Babe" Oates and Miss Doreen Swayne, Victoria Garrison Club champions, won the women's doubles title by defeating Miss Gladys McCall and Miss Dorothy Morley, Willows Club, 15-12, 3-15, 15-5. In the initial set the teams battled every inch of the way for victory. With the score standing 13-12 in favor of the champions, Miss Morley called for her partner not to play a Garrison shot, and the birdie dropped fair. This gave the Oates-Swayne combination a 14-12 lead, and they finished the game with the next service.

Miss Morley and Miss McCall opened strong in the second set, and after establishing an early lead were never headed. They won 15-3. In the third set the situation was quite the reverse with Miss Oates and Miss Swayne taking the game and the match 15-5.

IMPRESSIVE VICTORY

Playing good badminton all of the way, Miss Joyce Thomson and Drennan Hincks, the Brentwood pupil and tutor combination, scored an impressive victory in the mixed doubles over Miss Ethel Saunders and George Lane, Victoria Club, 15-8, 15-9.

With Miss Thomson at the net and Hincks at the back of the court, the Brentwood team displayed some remarkable strokes and were always dangerous. Lane, with his fine placements, gained valuable points, but the Willows pair were not strong enough for the suburban team and dropped the match in straight sets, 15-8, 15-9.

After dropping the initial set to Reg Corfield and Ted Simmons, Willows Club, 7-15, George Lane and Frank Tyrrell rallied to take the next two sets, 15-8, 15-8, and win the men's doubles championships. Again Lane's well-directed smashes proved the deciding factor in the three-set battle. Corfield made a number of good shots, as did his partner, but when the Lane-Tyrrell combination really got going in the last two sets they made things too hot for their opponents.

REFER ISSUE TO ASSEMBLY

U.S. Executive Committee to Leave Olympic Matter To Convention

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 (AP). — After wrestling all day with the highly-charged issue of American participation in the 1936 Olympic Games, the executive committee of the Amateur Athletic Union decided tonight to place it squarely before the open assembly of the annual convention tomorrow.

The committee, with President Jeremiah T. Mahoney in the chair, voted 10 to 5 to refer to the convention, without recommendation, a strongly-worded resolution condemning Germany's alleged discrimination against Jewish athletes and calling upon the A.A.U. to withdraw support from as well as actively opposed to holding the Olympics in Berlin.

This vote followed a deadlock on the motion to refer the resolution "favorably" to the floor of the convention.

Harry Cooper Is Leading in Open

ORLANDO, Fla., Dec. 6 (AP).—Lighthorse Harry Cooper, of Chicago, shot to the front at the halfway mark of the $2,000 Orlando open golf tournament today with a 69 that duplicated his first-round score and left him two strokes to the good at 138.

Tony Manero, of Greensboro, took a 72 and had none better than a tie at 140 for second with Johnny Revolta, of Milwaukee, the Professional Golfers' association champion.

Trailing Manero and Revolta by a stroke were Ky Laffoon, of Chicago; Paul Runyan, of White Plains, N.Y., and Roland Mackenzie, of Chicago.

TWO MORE ENTER $100,000 EVENT

The Whopper and Pre-Eminent Added to List for Annual Santa Anita Classic

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 6 (AP).—Nominations for the Santa Anita $100,000 Handicap to be run here on February 22 were increased to eighty-three today when H. Price Headley named the Whopper and Pre-Eminent for the world's wealthiest event.

Headley's nominees, along with $200 in entry fees, were received from Lexington, Ky., my mail, and officials of the Los Angeles Turf Club said these probably would be the last.

The Whopper, one of the biggest thoroughbreds in the country, finished ahead of Discovery in one race last season and was considered to be one of the best three-year-olds in the nation.

As it now stands, the handicap on the basis of nominations money is worth $108,300, as compared with $107,000 for the seventy nominations made for the inaugural race.

An old Scots weather prophet at Whittinghame informed the then Mr. Balfour that "It's gaun to rain seventy-twa days, sir." "Come, come!" said the statesman. "Surely the world was entirely flooded in forty days?" "Aye," was the response, "but the world wasna' sae weel drained as it is noo.

HAMILTON, Ont., Dec. 6 (CP).—Football's twelfth East-West classic in Canada, renewal of the most one-sided series in sport, brings together Winnipegs and Hamilton Tigers here tomorrow. In keeping with the legend that the West can't beat the East on the gridiron, the Tigers are favored to win. Withal, this inter-sectional struggle will mark a new stage in East-West football relations because Winnipegs already have scorned tradition. They actually believe they will conquer the Tigers. Last September they humbled Sarnia Imperials, 1934 Canadian champions, and that was the first time a Western senior team ever won from an Eastern team.

They rode into Hamilton tonight with the great, the near-great and the common citizen of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia sitting on the Winnipeg band wagon. Never before has the West felt as confident that the historic Gre Cup will be taken to the other side of the Great Lakes divide.

Premier John Bracken of Manitoba and three members of his Cabinet will be in the stands when Winnipegs gallop out to hook up with the Tigers. Mayor John Queen of Winnipeg has reserved a seat. Hundreds of native Westerners from all parts of the country will be here.

ELEVEN DEFEATS

It's a new Western football spirit that has invaded Hamilton. Eleven straight defeats since 1921 have not been forgotten. They are serving this time to accentuate the tension surrounding the twelfth encounter, a meeting where the West has a chance. Even the Tiger knows he may be picked up and blown away by a Prairie blizzard.

Hamilton's team is favored because it has proved itself a sound, steady-going machine that can mete out terrific punishment in the line and produce a dazzling scoring punch from the backfield. Tigers have dominated the Eastern scene as few teams have dominated it in recent years.

They won the big four title after a wobbly start. They ousted Queen's University, intercollegiate champions, 44-4, and last Saturday dethroned Sarnia with a 22-3 defeat.

They're "hot" and not even a West suggests they are anything but a great football team.

But it seems the West believes it has a great team, too. Joe Ryan, a grain exchange worker, picked the strongest links in the Winnipeg chain on various trips through Minnesota and other places where United States College football players have their being. Joe assembled the team and he manages it.

So little has been left to chance that Pete Summers, all-America quarterback for Minnesota in the days of Fritz Chrysler, will be on the bench tomorrow to handle matters of strategy and personnel. Coach Bob Fritz, star from Concordia College, will lead the team on the field. Line Coach Bert Oja will be at inside wing.

Since Ryan assembled this challenger, it has been unbeaten. Ryan says it never has been pressed by American or Canadian opposition. Winnipegs know they will be outpunted by Huck Welch or Frank Turville, of Tigers, but they believe a wingline averaging 187 pounds and a backfield with diversified attacking methods can bring down the Tiger. In short, they don't think any team can stop their land and air offensive, and they are confident they can hold any Hamilton drive.

GAME'S HIGHLIGHT

The battle along the front line promises to be a highlight of the struggle. Tigers have the edge at snap, pitting ironman Jerry Brock, of Cornell University, against the husky veteran, Lou Adelman. Elsewhere, except at the ends, it may be Winnipegs who hold the advantage.

Brian Timmis, Eddie Wright, Bill Friday and Pony Stull form the first Tiger line. Opposite these hardened campaigners will be Lou Mogul, Oja, Eddie Kushner and Herb Peschel. Mogul weighs 204; Oja, 200; Kushner, 185, and Peschel, 210. On the face of it, the lighter Bengal warriors are in for a difficult day.

John Watt Will Play in Price's Position Today

WITH Freddy Price laid up with sickness, Manager Ed White has been forced to change his Victoria United front line for this afternoon's Inter-City Football League match against St. Saviours at the Royal Athletic Park at 2:30 o'clock. The local boss will start the veteran John Watt, Victoria West Club, in the pivot position, and will have Dick Miller, Esquimalt, in reserve. The rest of the team will be the same as announced earlier this week. All players are asked to be at the park at 2 o'clock to receive their sweaters.

PEDEN LOSES PARTNER IN BIKE GRIND

Norm Hill Breaks Collarbone And Retires — Torchy Paired With Testa

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP).—Jimmie Walthour and Al Crossley held a one-lap lead over their nearest rivals as the six-day bicycle race entered the last day in Madison Square Garden today.

Two teams, Kilian-Vopel and Rodman-Yates, were in second place as the grind passed the 124th hour at 1 a.m. while the newly formed team of Torchy Peden and Eddie Testa was tied with Schoen and Putzfled, two laps behind the pacesetters.

Norman Hill, of San Jose, Cal., suffered a broken collarbone in a spill and was forced out of the grind. His partner, Torchy Peden, of Victoria, then partnered with Eddie Testa, of Los Angeles.

HILL CRASHES

Hill crashed in a sprint just before 9 o'clock. He made an attempt to continue in the race but finally retired. At the time the Hill-Peden team, one of the favorite combinations, was four laps behind the leaders.

Peden found a new partner when Bobby Echevaria, of San Jose, Cal., decided to give up the grind and his riding mate, Testa, paired with the flame-thatched Canadian. They had to re-enter the race nine laps behind the leaders. No reason was given for Echevaria's withdrawal.

One a.m. standings:

MISS HOCKING NAMED CAPTAIN

Elected at Annual Meeting of Macaulay Point Golf Club—New Officers Chosen

Miss Norma Hocking, popular member, was elected captain of the Macaulay Point Golf Club at the twelfth annual meeting held recently in the clubhouse. Miss Dorothy Ashman was named secretary-treasurer and Mrs. W. Poole, Mrs. C. S. Brown and Miss Mary Thorne were chosen as members of the executive. Mrs. A. Swan was elected convener of the social committee for the coming year.

Following the election of officers, discussion arose concerning affiliation with the Canadian Women's Golf Association. It was finally decided to do so early in the Spring.

A monthly medal competition will be staged at the Esquimalt course December 15. Members wishing to enter are asked to place their names on the bulletin board or communicate with the captain. A bridge party was also planned for January, and plans concerning it will be announced later.

Remember When

(Twenty-Five Years Ago)

Rugby enthusiasts of British Columbia will be given a treat if present plans mature during the Christmas holidays. Both the Varsity Rugby fifteens from California and Stanford have accepted the invitations from Victoria and Vancouver to come North this month, the Berkeley boys to play for the Keith International Rugby Trophy at Victoria, and the Stanford students to engage in a friendly series with the Vancouver representative team here. It is also proposed to bring the rival Southern varsities together in a special match at Brockton Point. The Southerners have never met on neutral grounds, their annual games being played in each other's parks, turn about each year, and the meeting here would be a rather unique test for them.

A Vancouver Island amateur association football league will be formed.

This decision was finally reached at a meeting of delegates representing the James Bay, North Ward and Empress clubs held last evening at the former's quarters.

Dan O'Sullivan occupied the chair, and those present were Messrs. Taylor and Christopher, North Ward, and Messrs. Kelsoll and Livingstone, Empress.

An encouraging feature of the proceedings was the announcement that a long-distance telephone message had been received during the day to the effect that the Duncan Football Club would enter the contemplated league.

Ryder Makes 104 Against India XI

BOMBAY, Dec. 6 (CP).—The Australian cricket team touring in India today made 268 runs in its first innings against an Indian eleven. The home players had previously made 163 and going in a second time had obtained 82 for eight wickets when stumps were drawn.

For the visitors, Ryder was top scorer with 104.

Security Prices Little Changed At Wall Street

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 (AP).—The stock market stepped back half a pace today in even-tempered trading. How completely the efforts of bulls and bears offset one another was illustrated by the fact that out of 731 issues, gains outnumbered losses by only fifteen. At the same time, shares in the unchanged column numbered 189, compared with 168 the day before.

The Associated Press average of sixty stocks was down .1 of a point to 55.2. Transactions totaled 2,424,710 compared with 2,357,770 on Thursday.

Fractional advances were made by American Telephone at 159 1-4, and International Harvester at 62. General Electric at 37 7-8, U.S. Steel at 47 1-2, and Westinghouse at 92 1-2 were slightly lower.

The corporate bond market settled down in a quiet trading area. Low-priced rails were in good demand.

In the foreign section, Italian obligations were small fractions to more than a point higher. Modest improvement was shown by German, Argentine and Polish governmental obligations.

WHEAT PRICES DECLINE AGAIN

Improvement in Foreign Demand Has Little Effect On Winnipeg Futures

WINNIPEG, Dec. 6 (CP).—Price dips towards the last failed to stir a sluggish grain trade here today.

After a session in which the trading range was limited to a half cent, wheat prices were at the day's lowest point, 3-8 to 1-8 cent under the previous finish.

A selling order or two that entered a market bereft of support sufficed to send prices lower in the final dealings, December closing at 83 5-8, May 87 3-8, and July 87 5-8 cents.

An improvement in foreign demand for Canada's wheat went almost unnoticed, with little of today's 500,000-bushel export sales being reflected in pit operations.

Little Stories for Bedtime

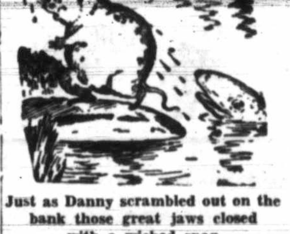

An Unexpected Danger

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Danny Meadow Mouse, swimming across the Smiling Pool to escape from Reddy Fox, was worried enough as he thought of how helpless he would be should Billy Mink or Snapper, the big Snapping Turtle, discover him before he reached the other bank. But Danny would have been still more worried had he known of a certain Big Pickerel, which you know is a kind of fish, who was making his home in the Smiling Pool.

Now the Big Pickerel lived very largely on the minnows and other little fish of the Smiling Pool, but he was always ready for anything else that might be good to eat. He had been some distance away from where Danny dived into the water, but he had heard the splash Danny made. It was different from the splashes made by the young frogs, and the Big Pickerel knew the difference. He would have been very glad to get one of the young frogs. In fact, he could have told what had become of a good many young frogs which had disappeared very mysteriously. But he had paid no attention to the splashes of the young frogs when they had dived into the water at the warning of Redwing the Blackbird. You see, he knew all about frogs, and he knew that they had dived right down to the bottom and hidden in the mud.

But this other splash interested him, and he began to move along in the direction of it. Now, if he had hurried in the first place, this story might have had a very different ending. But the Big Pickerel had had a good breakfast and he was only mildly interested. So he swam rather slowly. Danny Meadow Mouse was almost across the Smiling Pool before the Big Pickerel saw him. When the big Pickerel did see him, he quite forgot that he had had a good breakfast. It was seldom that he had the chance to dine on a fat meadow mouse, and he could think of nothing in the world that would taste better.

If he had moved slowly before, now he shot forward like an arrow. Grandfather Frog saw him and tried to warn Danny, but Danny was already swimming as fast as he could, and all the warnings in the world couldn't have made him swim any faster. The Big Pickerel's great jaws, each of which had ever and ever so many sharp teeth, were actually opening to seize Danny just as Danny's feet touched bottom. Just as Danny scrambled out on the bank, those great jaws closed with a wicked snap, almost at the end of Danny's funny, short tail.

There was a great splash, for the Big Pickerel had rushed so that he had almost stranded himself in the shallow water. For a minute Grandfather Frog couldn't see what had happened. Then he saw the Big Pickerel dart back into deep water, and with a sigh of relief saw Danny Meadow Mouse pop into one of the holes in the bank of the Smiling Pool.

WAR AND RELIGION

Sir,—With reference to Mrs. Lewis' letter re war and religion published in your paper on the 27th ultimo:

I wish to ask her if she would conscientiously quote from the Bible and recommend a policy of utopian dreams to meet a repetition of the following conditions as quoted from history:

"Some conception of the almost unbelievable horrors that Western Europe escaped may be gathered from the fate of the countries which fell before the irresitible rush of the Mongols, whose sole discernible motive seems to have been blood lust. The destruction wrought in China, Central Asia and Persia is almost beyond conception. In twelve years, in China and the neighboring states, Jenghiz Khan and his lieutenants slaughtered more than 18,500,000 human beings. After the sack of Merv in Khorasan, the 'Garden of Asia,' the corpses numbered 1,300,000, and after Herat was taken, 1,600,000 are said to have perished. Similar fates befell every city of importance in Central Asia, and to this day those once populous provinces have never recovered. The cities of Russia and Poland were burned, their inhabitants tortured and massacred, with the consequence that progress was retarded for centuries.

"Almost in modern times these same Mongoloid invaders, entering by way of Asia Minor, and calling themselves Turks, after destroying the Eastern Empire, the Balkan States, and Hungary, again met the Nordic chivalry of Western Europe under the walls of Vienna in 1683, and again the Asiatics went down in rout.

"On these four separate occasions the Nordic race and it alone saved modern civilization. The half-Nordicized lands to the south and to the east collapsed under the invasions.

"Unnumbered Nordic tribes, nameless and unsung, have been massacred or submerged, or driven from their lands. The survivors have been pushed ever westward until their backs were against the northern ocean. There the Nordics came to bay—the tide was turned. Few stop to reflect that it was more than sixty years after the first American legislature sat at Jamestown, Virginia, that Asia finally abandoned the conquest of Europe.

"One of the chief results of forcing the Nordic race back to the seacoast was the creation of maritime power and its development to a degree never before known even in the days of Phoenicians and Carthaginians. With the recession of the Turkish flood, modern Europe emerges and inaugurates a counter-attack on Asia which has placed virtually the entire world under European domination."

There is no doubt that history will again repeat itself, and the above are the unfortunate conditions that New Zealand, Australia and North and South America will have to face in the very near future. I ask, will we meet it with a Bible in one hand and an olive branch in the other, or with adequate defence preparedness?

EVOLUTION

Sir,—A letter on evolution, appearing in your issue of December 5, deserves comment.

There may, of course, be an honest difference of opinion regarding the causes of the various troubles from which the world is now suffering; but even a superficial knowledge of history should convince one that none of these troubles is new. Common to all nations, they have been recurrent during the whole period of which the records have been preserved.

Again, it is true that some believers in the theory of evolution call themselves atheists; but many people did this long before evolution was heard of. In this connection, Bacon's essay "On Atheism" is worth reading. There are, I think, few serious students of evolutionary theory who are not profoundly impressed by the fact that God is a necessary part of their hypothesis. They may not, and frequently do not, have any precise idea of the form and nature of God; but they tend to think of Him as an irresistible and, on the whole, beneficent force operating through immutable laws impartially administered. Breaches of these laws, whether voluntary or involuntary, necessarily entail suffering, but they do not involve destruction or eternal punishment of the soul. In other words, the evolutionist cannot conceive of God as being more revengeful and savage than himself. On the contrary, he pictures himself as rising, during past ages, from the pure selfishness of the vegetable to his present stage; and he looks forward to the time when he shall have reached the pure selflessness of Christ. He knows, however, that such an advance cannot be made in a single lifetime, and is neither depressed nor discouraged by his many and inevitable failures. At the same time, he fully realizes that failures involve suffering. In proportion to his wisdom, he tries to avoid them.

Perhaps it may be thought, the convinced and thoughtful evolutionist is incurably dogmatic. To a certain extent, he is, but only regarding fundamentals; he sees the process in outline, but is frankly and inevitably ignorant of its finer details. Yet he has faith. His attitude is similar to that of a ship's passenger, who trusts the captain and is not worried by his own comparative ignorance of navigation.

WAR AND RELIGION

Sir,—War is hateful. Wars of aggression are abominable, whilst defensive wars, to say the least, are deplorable. Your correspondent, Dorothy Stuart, truly says, "Christianity teaches us that war is diametrically opposed to the teachings of Christ." And yet Christ said, "I come not to send peace, but a sword." Furthermore, Jesus declared, "Ye shall hear of wars and rumors of wars; see that ye be not troubled: for all these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet."

Permit me, therefore, to offer an answer to some of the questions submitted by your correspondent. Why have wars? Naturally, we would not have them if the instigators could accomplish their designs without going to war. Hence the second question quickly follows the first, and arises therefrom. What is the cause of them? Again from the infallible Word we are told: "From whence come wars and fightings among you? Come they not hence even of your lists that war in your members? The same principle which operated in the mind of Cain, and led to the slaying of Abel, actuates the nations of the world. "They lust, and have not; they kill, and desire to have." Hence the root cause of war is the sin-principle in the flesh of man. Therefore, with one broad sweep of this present evil world, in the words of Isaiah, we are informed: "There is no peace, saith the Lord, unto the wicked."

I submit this as a general basic principle outlined in the Book of Books, in which apparently your correspondent believes. No doubt Italy's object is "profit, to gain territorial expansion." Over the air I have just heard that England and France have proposed to grant certain concessions to Italy, but the Emperor says not one foot of Ethiopia will he give to Italy. Time will tell. We shall yet see two Leagues of Nations in the race for supremacy; and associated with the Northern confederacy we find, according to Ezekiel, that "Ethiopia and Libya" will be with them. Italy will form an important part of the confederacy, but will not be the leader. It is, therefore, very probable that the outcome of the present situation will be to give Italy further strength where her designs are placed. The "profit motive" will not be eliminated whilst human nature remains the same. It is interesting to read in the Psalms: "Ethiopia shall soon stretch out her hands unto God." But the storm of the latter-day Assyrian will first break the peace of Europe. Believe it or not—it is written, and will come to pass: "When Thy judgments are in the earth, the inhabitants of the world will learn righteousness" (Isaiah). "Scatter thou the people that delight in war" is a prayer in the Psalms yet to be fulfilled. The final act in the drama of nations is being prepared, and in the grand finale "He maketh wars to cease unto the end of the earth."

WAR AND RELIGION

Sir,—I read with interest in today's Colonist the letter of Mrs. J. Lewis, of Saanich, on "War and Christianity." We always read her letters with delight and are of the opinion you would be doing your readers a service in giving her space in which to thrash out this glaring inconsistency of the Anglican Church in condemning war in one breath and consecrating it in the next. The Lambeth conference of bishops, we have been told, again and again declared war to be contrary to the mind of Christ, but when a possible war is on the horizon which threatens British interests the bishops turn around and say "we must have one more war to end all wars." What hyprocracy! And Mrs. Lewis in her letter voices the cry of inarticulate youth against this hypocracy. They are fortunate in having her for a spokesman. She will learn in time that there is no such thing as absolute honesty or love in organized religion.
